

Jacqueline Winspear Quotes

War, Thinking, Moving, Interesting, Men, People, Jobs, Time, Art, Helping Others, Aristocracy, Coincidence, Mean, Distance, Real, Past, Links, Journey, Waiting, Keys

Coincidence is a messenger sent by truth.

~Jacqueline Winspear

Memories are links in a golden chain that bind us until we meet again.

~Jacqueline Winspear

Stay with the question. The more it troubles you, the more it has to teach you.

~Jacqueline Winspear

Yes, it does make the load rather heavy if you carry tools for every eventuality.

~Jacqueline Winspear

It's really important in any historical fiction, I think, to anchor the story in its time. And you do that by weaving in those details, by, believe it or not, by the plumbing.

~Jacqueline Winspear

My first ever job after college was as a flight attendant. I wanted to travel and could not afford it, so I decided to get myself a job where I could travel. I did it for two years and had great fun.

~Jacqueline Winspear

if the way ahead is not clear, time is often the best editor of one's intentions.

~Jacqueline Winspear

only when we have a respect for time will we have learned something of the art of living.

~Jacqueline Winspear

But there are many men-and women-who do things in a time of war that they wouldn't dream of doing in peacetime, and all for the common good.

~Jacqueline Winspear

It was time to move on, to dance with life again.

~Jacqueline Winspear

a question has the most power before we rush to answer it, when it is still making us think, still testing us.

~Jacqueline Winspear

I often think it would be really interesting to take all of those who would wage war to the battlefield cemeteries, and say, explain yourself to the dead. Explain yourself to the dead!

~Jacqueline Winspear

One always has riches when one has a book to read.

~Jacqueline Winspear

Never judge a journey by the distance.

~Jacqueline Winspear

It is indeed a wondrous universal alchemy, is it not? When one's heartfelt intentions cause mountains to move.

~Jacqueline Winspear

What's interesting to me, is a moving someone through time; in a way, history is part of my landscape. And it fascinates me that history can be so easily reflected in what happens today.

~Jacqueline Winspear

in this great war [WWI] ... they had, all of them, on all sides, lost their freedom. The freedom to think hopefully of the future.

~Jacqueline Winspear

Most people don't realize that they feel something is wrong before they think something is wrong.

~Jacqueline Winspear

Im a storyteller; that is what I do. And Im particularly interested in history; and in history of a certain era. But what is interesting for me is how many, how many things you see repeated.

~Jacqueline Winspear

Related Links:

- War Quotes
- Thinking Quotes
- Moving Quotes
- Interesting Quotes
- Men Quotes
- People Quotes
- Jobs Quotes
- Time Quotes
- Art Quotes
- Helping Others Quotes
- Aristocracy Quotes
- Coincidence Quotes
- Mean Quotes
- Distance Quotes
- Real Quotes
- Past Quotes
- Links Quotes
- Journey Quotes
- Waiting Quotes
- Keys Quotes