A person can't know what happiness is without experiencing sadness. And I think that's healthy.

~Jai Courtney

I was a bit of a show-off in school and loved playing dress-up, and my passion for it just grew as I got older.

~Jai Courtney

I was a show-off as a kid and loved to dress up. I was constantly in costume, drawing mustaches on with eyeliner and letting my sister plait my hair and all that.

~Jai Courtney

I went to the Avengers: Age of Ultron and I'm like, "These guys are Olympians now." There's no place for a Walter Matthau in a movie anymore.

~Jai Courtney

I'm not someone who has a lengthy attention span, and that applies to my exercise routine as well.

~Jai Courtney

My mum is a school teacher and my dad is an electrician.

~Jai Courtney

I had this alter ego where I would go to the theater with mom. I wasn't embarrassed by it; it was separate for me.

~Jai Courtney

I've always played sport. I played rugby, I was involved in athletics, I played cricket... I'm an outdoors kind of guy.

~Jai Courtney

I was always realistic about the fact I wanted to be involved with big films.

~Jai Courtney

When you're working with people you've seen in hundreds of films... it's a bit crazy to step outside yourself for a minute and think, 'This is surreal.' But I try not to get too bogged down in that.

~Jai Courtney

I started coming to L.A. as often as I could, for three months on and three months off, because immigration kicks you out after 90 days.
