Nature's prime favourites were the Pelicans; High-fed, long-lived, and sociable and free.

~James Montgomery

Fairest and best adorned is she Whose clothing is humility.

~James Montgomery

Blue thou art, intensely blue; Flower, whence came thy dazzling hue?

~James Montgomery

Here hyacinths of heavenly blue, shook their rich tresses to the morn.

~James Montgomery

There is a flower, a little flower With silver crest and golden eye, That welcomes every changing hour, And weathers every sky.

~James Montgomery

The Dove, on silver pinions, winged her peaceful way.

~James Montgomery

Yet nightly pitch my moving tent, a day's march nearer home.

~James Montgomery

Joys too exquisite to last, And yet more exquisite when past.

~James Montgomery

Baptize the nations! far and nigh, The triumphs of the cross record
The name of Jesus glorify, Till every people call Him Lord.

~James Montgomery

Dark-green and gemm'd with flowers of snow, With close uncrowded branches spread Not proudly high, nor meanly low, A graceful myrtle rear'd its head.

~James Montgomery

If God hath made this world so fair, Where sin and death abound, How beautiful beyond compare Will paradise be found!

~James Montgomery

When to the cross I turn my eyes, And rest on Calvary, O Lamb of God, my sacrifice, I must remember Thee.

~James Montgomery

The tulip's petals shine in dew, All beautiful, but none alike.

~James Montgomery

The Dead are like the stars by day; Withdrawn from mortal eye, But not extinct, they hold their way In glory through the sky.

~James Montgomery

Who that hath ever been Could bear to be no more? Yet who would tread again the scene He trod through life before?

~James Montgomery

Songs of praise the angels sang, Heav'n with alleluias rang, when creation was begun, when God spoke and it was done.

~James Montgomery

Gashed with honourable scars, Low in Glory's lap they lie; Though they fell, they fell like stars, Streaming splendour through the sky.

~James Montgomery

When evening closes Nature's eye, The glow-worm lights her little spark To captivate her favorite fly And tempt the rover through the dark.

~James Montgomery

Hymns should have unity, graduation and mutual dependence in the thoughts, a conscious progress, a sense of completeness and be easily
