I responded in what I thought was the most truthful, or least untruthful manner.

~James R. Clapper

What I said was, 'the NSA does not voyeuristically pore through U.S. citizens' e-mails.' I stand by that.

~James R. Clapper

We must remain mindful of the potential impact of over-correcting the authorizations of the intelligence community.

~James R. Clapper

Some of you expressed surprise that I showed up-so many emails to read!

~James R. Clapper

We're talking about nuclear war with North Korea. We're talking about Russia. Does it feel like the world has shifted? Are we all just in Donald Trump's reality show now?

~James R. Clapper

The FBI is unique in that it straddles both law enforcement and counterintelligence.

~James R. Clapper

I have sort of a visceral aversion to the prominence of the either active duty, in the case of General McMaster, or retired general officers filling political, civilian positions.

~James R. Clapper

There's nobody that wants the president to be successful more than I.

~James R. Clapper

I think, as a professional courtesy, when the president asks you to dinner, you go.
