I certainly am not afraid of hard work. Hard work is only hard if you are not passionate about what you are doing.

~James Scott

A hero knows it takes hard work and a long time to get published; a fool thinks it should happen immediately, because he thinks he's a hero already.

~James Scott

Revenge is a really narrow scope through which to view things. In the same way secrets do, it has this ability to warp everything. But secrets are more inward, and revenge is outward.

~James Scott

Great ideas are fish in a stream. Your pen/pencil is a spear. If you don't spear them, they'll swim on by. Be ready.

~James Scott

[Rumors are a] vehicle for anxieties and aspirations that may not be openly expressed.

~James Scott

Secrets are inherently selfish. The longer you keep them, the harder it is to put yourself in other people's shoes about them and the more irrational your thinking surrounding it becomes.

~James Scott

I'm a really anxious person, so I tend not to keep secrets. I tend not to even want to hear them. It's too nerve-wracking for me to try and keep things from people.

~James Scott

Secrets can be poisonous.

~James Scott

It's always fun to try something new, and to play a new character, and it's fun to play another period.

~James Scott

As your life goes on you should gain a deeper understanding of the world and the people moving through it; but that might be asking too much.
