I'm a sucker for a man who giggles-not a high-pitched serial-killer sort of giggle, but a lighthearted laugh.

~Jancee Dunn

I can barely listen to my tapes when I'm transcribing, because I can't stand how I sound.

Coldplay was unknown, and we played them over and over and over again, and they were really loyal to us. They went on M2 way after they had broken and become famous, because they remembered us.

~Jancee Dunn

We were really responsive. It was very personalized for the die-hards that did watch, and I thought that would be a big draw, too.

I don't look like a model; I'm a rock writer.

~Jancee Dunn

If I felt like not saying what was on the cue card, I would. We rarely did retakes.

~Jancee Dunn

I had this producer who became a friend, named Lou [Stellato]. Maybe it was a budget thing, but he never wanted to do any retakes. The more I would have a mental breakdown on the air.

~Jancee Dunn

Sometimes we were really surprised. There were major artists that would come by because they wanted to.

~Jancee Dunn

A few of the artists knew my name, because I have an unusual name, from Rolling Stone.

~Jancee Dunn

You can see when that happens with bands when they do TV appearances; they just shut down. They get really irritated.

~Jancee Dunn

If you were to share your workout playlist with the world, I guarantee there's stuff on there that wouldn't pass the cool test, and M2 helped in that way.

~Jancee Dunn

When I hear the Spice Girls, yeah, all that '90s stuff, like Limp Bizkit. Dandy Warhols! Whenever I hear them, it takes me right back, because they were friends of the channel, too.
