My first thought in moments of darkness and doubt is, "Who can I call? Who can I share this with?" Connection and sharing saves me every time.

~Jane Park

I always tell people, don't worry about the haters, you are not a jackass whisperer. You have to be enough. You have to be your own validation.

~Jane Park

The most important part of my mental self-care is knowing who to call for what kinds of help.

~Jane Park

The world is more flexible than you might think.
