People in power need to control others in order to maintain power. One of the ways to do that is to take that which is threatening and demonize it.

~Jasmine Guy

I don't much care who is gay or straight or married or not. I mostly notice if they are brave enough to confront bigotry.

~Jasmine Guy

If one is desperate for love, I suggest looking at one's friends and family and see if love is all around. If not, get a new set of friends, a new family.

~Jasmine Guy

One disco, one soft ball game, one lost love, one gay pride rally at a time.

~Jasmine Guy

Bigotry and judgment are the height of insecurity.

~Jasmine Guy

It is a full time job being honest one moment at a time, remembering to love, to honor, to respect. It is a practice, a discipline, worthy of every moment.

~Jasmine Guy

The building of friendship, family, community and love is complicated. We are so isolated in this country, no longer supported by tribes and villages.

~Jasmine Guy

I believe people who practice their beliefs in daily life are activists.

~Jasmine Guy

I want word of mouth to be our biggest voice.

~Jasmine Guy

An activist is one who is actively involved in creating community, whether that is locally in their neighborhood or internationally. It is an admirable quality.

~Jasmine Guy

The state and the church seldom approve of anything I do. I don't need their approval. I don't aspire to the heterosexual nuclear family model

~Jasmine Guy

I am very sad for men and women trapped in any relationship where there is cruelty, dominance, inequity. I long for the liberation of all people.

~Jasmine Guy

If black people mistrust white people, they are mistrusting racism, and that is appropriate.

~Jasmine Guy

There is a child in all of us, a person who believes in a glorious future.

~Jasmine Guy

I always try to honor a character by being honest and truthful to who they are, in spite of my own personality and beliefs.

~Jasmine Guy

Young people discovering their sexuality must know they walk with a strong tradition and that they are not alone. They have a right to information without being pressured.

~Jasmine Guy

As the middle begins to feel safe enough to accept some of the so-called radical thinking, ideas move to the middle and a new edge is created.

~Jasmine Guy

We gave up having a TV last year. I am out of the loop. Life is way better than TV. I recommend it to anyone who has forgotten they have one.

~Jasmine Guy

You tend to be afraid when someone seems foreign to you. But if you aren't careful, that can lead to bigotry.

~Jasmine Guy

I am going to sing lesbian love songs and support gay rights no matter what. The rest is public relations.

~Jasmine Guy

That made me feel good, not to go to a resort where outside the door is extreme poverty

~Jasmine Guy

I spent years crying in my diary. But I finally stopped finding fault with myself. We're all different, yet the same.

~Jasmine Guy

The kitchen may not get cleaned, and I have to accept that. I do the important things.

~Jasmine Guy

I've always known the greatness of black people.

~Jasmine Guy

I meet so many people, but I don't know anybody.

~Jasmine Guy

I have often felt bad that I am not great at any one thing. Like just a super super singer. Or the Gregory Hines of something

~Jasmine Guy

The more confident one becomes, the less one needs all people to be the same.

~Jasmine Guy

Anything that is non-violent is OK with me.

~Jasmine Guy

I would love to direct a movie, something I really like with a great cast. What a dream!

~Jasmine Guy

There is no sexuality that is greater or lesser than another.

~Jasmine Guy

We are a complex species to observe
