The currency of blogging is authenticity and trust.

~Jason Calacanis

Fortunes are built during the down market and collected in the up market.

~Jason Calacanis

There is no luck, you work hard and study things intently. If you do that for long and hard enough you're successful.

~Jason Calacanis

No one remembers how you got there, only that you got there.

~Jason Calacanis

Excellence is everything today, and most people aren't excellent. If you're not excellent - like truly excellent at what you do - you're toast.

~Jason Calacanis

People's reputations are made in the bad times more than the good times.

~Jason Calacanis

I get a lot of emails from entrepreneurs. The best ones are short, to the point and include some question and/or the product

~Jason Calacanis

Blogging is great, and I read blogs all day long. However, my goal is really to have a deep, meaningful discussion with people. For some reason, I'm able to accomplish this best via email.

~Jason Calacanis

If you can't sell your product, it's not a product-it's a hobby.

~Jason Calacanis

Longevity is a big part of credibility.

~Jason Calacanis

If everybody has a voice, then you end up with something average.

~Jason Calacanis

Starting is easy. Finishing is hard.

~Jason Calacanis

When you come from nothing, you're basically just trying to get escape velocity, which means you and your family don't have to worry about being broke and that's all I ever cared about.

~Jason Calacanis

Art is an adventure that never seems to end.

~Jason Calacanis

Be amazing. Be everywhere. Be real

~Jason Calacanis

Average people push great people out of a company.
