On tour I'm finding out that I am half gypsy, 40% vagabond, and 10 house cat.

~Jason Reeves

I want to build a treehouse village connected by bridges in the woods by my house so my friends have a place to stay.

~Jason Reeves

Inspiration comes from everywhere always. But it's strongest in love and in its absence.

~Jason Reeves

I think every tour stop on the west coast is equally rewarding for me. There is something healing about the air and the light in the west.

~Jason Reeves

Even before I started writing songs, that was one of my goals to be a writer, and I still have that goal. I've just gotten sidetracked.

~Jason Reeves

I don't really believe in plans. They only change. My goal is simply to be able to make music and live life in this crazy, falling-apart world.

~Jason Reeves

You have to have a vision and know that it's worth seeing it through. Other than that, just be true to your heart.

~Jason Reeves

I do what works best for me, but it might not work for somebody else.

~Jason Reeves

There's a weird period of learning how to play guitar where your fingers are constantly messed up a handful.

~Jason Reeves

I started writing when I was 17. I got an acoustic guitar for my birthday after I discovered Bob Dylan and James Taylor.

~Jason Reeves

I took piano and drum lessons when I was young, and took a lot of choir classes in high school. Beyond that I just play by ear and learn as I go.

~Jason Reeves

The people of Iowa are a rare breed.

~Jason Reeves

I love writing and photography and the natural world that inspires them both. I'm working on getting as lost as I can in the beauty before it is completely wiped clean by the madness of man.
