I believe that I have such a vanilla life.

~Jen Lancaster

I still believe in the Holy Trinity, except now it's Target, Trader Joe's, and IKEA.

~Jen Lancaster

I'm the person who says every single thing she thinks, sometimes to others' amusement, and almost always to my detriment.

~Jen Lancaster

No matter how happy anyone is with their choices, I believe it's human nature to wonder about the path not taken.

~Jen Lancaster

In real life, I tend to yell at people a lot. Not because I'm bossy or mean, but because I'm frustrated.

~Jen Lancaster

I don't mean to get all religious here, but I'm pretty sure key lime martinis (with a graham cracker & sugar rim) are proof that Jesus loves us.

~Jen Lancaster

As a reader, I notice political views regardless of whether or not the book is fiction. What annoys me is when said views do nothing to advance the narrative.

~Jen Lancaster

Fortunately, all it takes for us to be of one mind is some buttercream frosting.

~Jen Lancaster

For the record? I have never been her baby. In fact, I reject the notion of coming out of her body. I prefer to believe I was hatched, or perhaps purchased.

~Jen Lancaster

Ambien might have mentally just tossed my salad. WITH CROUTONS.

~Jen Lancaster

Were I forced to describe this woman in one word, that word would be...herpes.

~Jen Lancaster

Everyone who reads me is someone I'd like to hang out with.

~Jen Lancaster

You think you're so cool just because you can walk!

~Jen Lancaster

I never sleep on the plane. I have to be awake and using my mind power to keep it in the air

~Jen Lancaster

Expressing political opinion can be a powerful way to establish a character's voice when writing fiction.

~Jen Lancaster

Writing is something that I've always loved. That stems from my love of being a reader.

~Jen Lancaster

I'm very detail oriented. I think that's why people enjoy my memoirs - because I tend to remember everything.

~Jen Lancaster

I yearn to be a woman of more depth, but I'm not so fond of the path I'd need to follow to get there.

~Jen Lancaster

I tried, it was hard, I quit, the end. Story of my life.

~Jen Lancaster

I can't believe anyone would voluntarily run 26 miles. Sometimes I sit on the couch cross-legged because I don't feel like walking to the bathroom.

~Jen Lancaster

When did the cell phone become a license to be rude? And why must I be subjected to your personal conversations?

~Jen Lancaster

I would rather receive a Pap smear from Captain Hook than venture out on New Year's Eve.

~Jen Lancaster

The best thing about being 45 is not taking myself so seriously.

~Jen Lancaster

I think people tend to be very myopic and they don't understand how their actions impact others.

~Jen Lancaster

I'm such a fangirl when it comes to other writers. I read 250 books a year, and I'm always talking up books by other authors.

~Jen Lancaster

I've always been able to cook Italian food. That's in my blood because I'm half Sicilian.

~Jen Lancaster

You can't all of a sudden go to sleep one night and wake up Martha Stewart. It's bit by bit by bit.

~Jen Lancaster

I'm a humor writer, so I don't always present myself in the best light.

~Jen Lancaster

Maybe I've moved to the dark side, but it's clean and nice and we never run out of toilet paper.

~Jen Lancaster

Point? Maybe you aren't a Carrie or a Samantha or a Charlotte or a Miranda. Maybe you're just you.

~Jen Lancaster

Some people are destined to be deep thinkers. I am not one of those people.

~Jen Lancaster

Despite my best efforts, I'm not quite perfect. Let's just say I'm like one of those Hopi blankets where they leave a tiny flaw so as to not affront the Lord.

~Jen Lancaster

No, it's not a 'corpse thing.' I feel I lack the emotional capacity to deal with those in mourning.

~Jen Lancaster

This is terrific! What fun! Maybe tomorrow I can go to the prom with my brother. The day after, perhaps I can wear white pants and unexpectedly get my period.

~Jen Lancaster

I'm not lazy. I'm simply judicious about excess movement.

~Jen Lancaster

You know what it was like? It was like thinking I was heading to a surprise party and instead it was a surprise pap smear.

~Jen Lancaster

Owning a dog is slightly less expensive than being addicted to crack.

~Jen Lancaster

As I examine my life through this book, I can't help but wonder if my mother was right. Maybe I really was what I ate. And maybe if she'd let me eat a little more sugar, I'd have come out sweeter.
