What's next for me? I don't know. So I'm in exactly the same boat as many of you.

~Jill Abramson

It's a little dangerous to be a badass.

~Jill Abramson

We human beings are a lot more resilient than we often realize.
Resilient and perseverant.

~Jill Abramson

A general truth is to have a good sense of humor. Roll with the punches of life's ups and downs. Laughing at yourself always helps.

~Jill Abramson

You know the sting of losing or not getting something you badly want. When that happens show what you are made of.

~Jill Abramson

In one's relationship with dogs and with a newsroom, a generous amount of praise and encouragement goes much better than criticism.

~Jill Abramson

I have an older sister who sounds, unfortunately, exactly like me, and we sound like our mother did.

~Jill Abramson

The printed newspaper is a powerful showcase for news, opinion and advertising.

~Jill Abramson

I like the immediacy of blogs and the democratizing effects of letting millions of voices bloom on the Web.

~Jill Abramson

People often assume New York City is no place to keep a dog. This is certainly what my parents told me when I was growing up there. But I have found this not to be the case at all.

~Jill Abramson

Women are damn resilient.

~Jill Abramson

You know, a dog can snap you out of any kind of bad mood that you're in faster than you can think of.

~Jill Abramson

The idea that women journalists bring a different taste in stories or sensibility isn't true.

~Jill Abramson

If The Times said it, it was the absolute truth.

~Jill Abramson

The whole issue of how women's management styles are viewed is an incredibly interesting subject.

~Jill Abramson

Nobody wants a unitary voice of authority any more.

~Jill Abramson

I think as an investigative reporter I had tough standards, but I don't think of myself as a tough person.

~Jill Abramson

I think the Huffington Post has been inventive and presents what it aggregates well.
