I wasn't very good about juggling family and my career. I was interested in who was coming to the children's birthday party, what my son was writing. I was thinking about Legos.

~Jill Clayburgh

I like to run, to go down the stairs, I'm one of those kind of people.

~Jill Clayburgh

I came from dinner, went downtown with my friends, the elevator was down, I ran down the hall toward my room at 10 at night, having had two glasses of wine.

~Jill Clayburgh

I want to be an actress, not a personality.

~Jill Clayburgh

I just didn't work that much while the kids were growing up.

~Jill Clayburgh

I don't like sitting around in my dressing room very much. It feels a lot like theater.

~Jill Clayburgh

Well, this would be nice if it worked out, but I'm not selling the farm.

~Jill Clayburgh

People always seem to see echoes of their own lives in my films.

~Jill Clayburgh

What bugs me is that movies don't reflect how interesting and vibrant women are. We don't treasure women as they get older.

~Jill Clayburgh

I notice now, whatever character in whatever movie youre watching,

they have these toned arms and muscles.

~Jill Clayburgh

There's something about soft, unstructured arms that's very beautiful.

~Jill Clayburgh

Clothes are part of the character. They can't but help inform who you are.

~Jill Clayburgh

I love to swim for miles; I could just go back and forth.

~Jill Clayburgh

A woman came up to me after one of the screenings with tears pouring down her face and sobbed, You've defined my entire life for me on the screen.

~Jill Clayburgh

I no longer say nice things about yoga. I was doing yoga so long before everybody else.

~Jill Clayburgh

I dont theorize too much. I sort of let the experience sink in, and I have to discover what the character is by doing it, and having those thoughts that shes thinking.
