When I was a kid, I wanted to be a spy detective or a rock star.

~Jill Sobule

I wish I had somebody to rock me to sleep.

~Jill Sobule

Music teachers can either inspire or make you resent your instrument and parents in early years.

~Jill Sobule

As a musician, I have always refrained from criticizing another artist.

~Jill Sobule

I think I'm different from a lot of singer-songwriters because some of my favorite singer-songwriters told stories. Like John Prine.

~Jill Sobule

I would go to heaven, if I believed in heaven.

~Jill Sobule

And we laughed, at the world. They can have their diamonds, And we'll have our pearls

~Jill Sobule

I have never made a cent off a record in my life. I have never recouped enough, and I never sold enough.

~Jill Sobule

My mom wore the pants in the family, for sure. I always say, that I spent my childhood trying to get the love and attention of my mom, and now I can't get rid of it.

~Jill Sobule

I don't have a Madonna-sized fan base, so I can actually e-mail and talk to everyone that e-mails me, because I am totally appreciative and I like my fans!

~Jill Sobule

I am doomed or fortunate to stick to what I do best.

~Jill Sobule

I'm down with the whole patron thing. Bring back the Medicis. Maybe, I'm not just a lefty, but a royalist.

~Jill Sobule

I'm a bit of a lefty. I like the idea of art and music collectives.

~Jill Sobule

In a way, I'm not at all jaded, and still enjoy so much what I do. It's a good trick.

~Jill Sobule

I still have this unrealistic faith, that one day, my ship will come in. More people will discover, understand and buy my stuff.

~Jill Sobule

When I was on the big labels, I never calculated what would make me sell more records. I just did what I did -no different than when I wrote songs for myself in high-school.

~Jill Sobule

As a bit of loner, prone to melancholy, with a questionable sexuality, I found great solace in the words of-Dylan, Joni, John Prine and Leonard Cohen. The darker the better.

~Jill Sobule

I started playing the acoustic guitar for more singer-songwriter type stuff. I bet if I would have gotten more approval for my "rock playing", I might be a world class shredder.

~Jill Sobule

My rocking out didn't make me particularly popular with the boys or girls. It wasn't cute or feminine. I was more of a...weirdo.

~Jill Sobule

Can you imagine a 6 year old banging all day on a drum kit. I do have photos of me in my sort of princess girly bedroom with a bad-ass sparkle set.

~Jill Sobule

My first instrument was the drums. Not quite sure why I quit and changed to guitar, but I'm sure my parents might have convinced me that the guitar was way better.

~Jill Sobule

Unfortunately you can't copyright a title... bummer.
