I'm more muscular than I was in my younger days. My biceps and shoulders, especially.

~Jim Goad

The vegan diet is obviously lacking whatever essential nutrient it is that makes people likeable.

~Jim Goad

My hatred is a thousand times more powerful than all your good intentions.

~Jim Goad

Hatred is the air I breathe. It permeates every cell in my body.

~Jim Goad

Anti-racist propaganda is relentless and inescapable, as if the propagandists fear that if they shut up about it for a second, they'd instantly become racists themselves.

~Jim Goad

Many of the racial problems in America are caused by the fact that people are innately tribal, and politicians know how to exploit that biological fact.

~Jim Goad

One of the greatest pleasures I get from my measly professional career is confusing people.

~Jim Goad

It's very odd to observe someone else taking your identity into their own hands and getting it all wrong. I don't think most people will ever get to experience how truly weird it is.

~Jim Goad

The criticism that has most consistently bothered me is the allegation that I'm a schlockmeister whose only objective is to shock people.

~Jim Goad

San Francisco, America's B-movie imitation of Paris. San Francisco, the city that ruined punk rock. San Francisco, the most intolerant place in the country.

~Jim Goad

I prefer for a woman's most private of areas to have as much hair as Carlos Santana's entire band, head to toe, circa 1972.

~Jim Goad

Homosexuality is genetically hardwired but race and gender are only ideas. OK. Just trying to keep up.

~Jim Goad

I've never had a meth habit, I don't walk around naked, and unless I'm actively provoked, I'm generally polite and well-spoken.

~Jim Goad

In a perverse way, it's very patriarchal to think that women can't be malicious or violent.

~Jim Goad

The average human's fundamental project is to find someone else to blame for their problems.

~Jim Goad

My hatred is diamond-hard.

~Jim Goad

It amazes me that some people who ordinarily can recognize autocratic bullying, tacky sloganeering, and - especially - camp value are unable to spot it in this Hate Scare that grips the Western world.

~Jim Goad

Nowadays, you suffer the same risks - ostracism, career loss, possible assault - for being perceived as racist that you would have encountered a century ago for daring to question racist ideology.

~Jim Goad

I think my sense of humor is Jewish. I'm smarter than most white people, which is kind of a Jewish thing, too.

~Jim Goad

The leftist drive for control is insatiable.

~Jim Goad

Show me pornography which promotes violence against women, and I'll buy it.

~Jim Goad

I don't think fatherhood's changed me so much as it's conjured protective instincts I've had all along.

~Jim Goad

There's a reason the Third World came in third.

~Jim Goad

Governments throughout the English-speaking sphere are creating and then ratcheting the torque on "hate-speech" laws with frightening eagerness.

~Jim Goad

When I write, I strain with every wizened fibre of my weathered frame to analyze every possible angle of any given subject.

~Jim Goad

I didn't see much besides Melbourne and a quick trip down to the Twelve Apostles, but all the Aussies I encountered were good-spirited and had a fine sense of humor.

~Jim Goad

Anyone who's ever had the misfortune of seeing me interact with house pets knows I have a wickedly strong paternal instinct bordering on the maternal.

~Jim Goad

I write to please myself.

~Jim Goad

If I'd been talking about black trash, I might be lynched. If I was talking about white trash, I'd merely be another torchbearer in an ongoing national lynching.

~Jim Goad

Equality is a nice idea, but it's entirely impossible to prove.

~Jim Goad

When I see two women kissing, my only physical reaction is a strong desire to vomit in both of their mouths.

~Jim Goad

I tend not to hang with 'the crowd' because I believe that at any given moment in history, the crowd is only standing somewhere because some lone, brave nutjob broke down the walls for them first.

~Jim Goad

People can be so heartless and dirty.

~Jim Goad

I'm still an obsessive personality, and I still think I'm right, and I still believe my literary balls hang far lower than nearly anyone else's alive.

~Jim Goad

I don't think it's entirely paranoid to suspect that one day, you won't be able to so much as question the primary tenets of anti-racism without going to jail.

~Jim Goad

Unlike the vast majority of people, I've been locked in a box like an animal and I've also been on the receiving end of bloody thrashings, so I feel uniquely qualified to judge which is worse.

~Jim Goad

I certainly didn't emerge from prison regretting anything I ever wrote, nor did I feel remorse for my crime in the least.

~Jim Goad

I've noticed that if you spend ten years without shooting dope, people consider you an ex-junkie, but one never is considered an 'ex-woman-beater.'

~Jim Goad

I'm the only convict who couldn't get into Australia.

~Jim Goad

I definitely don't know why men are turned-on by lesbianism.

~Jim Goad

I'll argue anyone into the dust when it comes to facts.

~Jim Goad

I was exposed to violence while I was still in the womb - my father punched my mother in the stomach while she was pregnant with me.

~Jim Goad

The idea of "karma" reeks of primitive religious superstition, so I don't place a lot of stock in it.

~Jim Goad

I believe that to some degree there are situational and psychological laws of cause-and-effect, but I don't believe there's some Æber-soul who doles out "justice."

~Jim Goad

I'm alive, happier than I've ever been, and I'm doing exactly what I want.

~Jim Goad

I never want to think or write about the topic again when I'm finished with it.

~Jim Goad

In my long, long years toiling around the publishing industry, I've found that women simply don't stick to the writing with the same fervor that men do.

~Jim Goad

You have to be careful because those feelings and bitterness can take over and consume in a bad way.

~Jim Goad

Hatespeak is usually more honest than lovespeak, and it's always better than doublespeak.

~Jim Goad

The idea that the reader is important enough to me that I'd tailor my words to either please or offend them always seems amusingly alien to me.

~Jim Goad

I'll hit anyone who's seriously threatening my life... that's what happened, and that's what sent me to prison.

~Jim Goad

Though your major media kept smacking me upside the head with the word "multicultural," you goddamned Australians are the most racist bunch of people I've ever seen in my life.

~Jim Goad

I don't regret any of my transgressions, because I believe I paid for them a million times over.

~Jim Goad

What's good and bad, sweet spirit, are in the eye of the beholder.

~Jim Goad

As I view it, spending over two years in a cage is far worse than having your face pounded and dealing with a black eye for a week or two.

~Jim Goad

If anything, I've probably tended more toward humor in my writing and veered more toward pleasure in my personal life.

~Jim Goad

What's absolutely impossible to prove is the idea of innate and everlasting equality.

~Jim Goad

I'm developing a mild rash at the idea of "plugging" anything, because it's not how I roll.

~Jim Goad

Most of those who spend their lives as critics secretly wish they'd be considered important enough for someone to bother criticizing them.

~Jim Goad

I don't believe that human ethnic groups are equal, and I believe that's fairly easy to prove.

~Jim Goad

A primary flaw in my psychology is that I'll give people a hundred yards' worth of rope with which to hang themselves, but once they reach that hundred-yard line, I strangle them to death with it.

~Jim Goad

My crazy parents and those crazy Catholic nuns didn't do a good job of forcing me to keep the Ten Commandments, but they kept me forever fixated on the very idea of a taboo.

~Jim Goad

In contrast to how my father treated me, I won't hit him, I won't call him evil, I'll give him affection, and I'll pay attention to him.

~Jim Goad

It's not exactly courageous to be an anti-racist these days; a hundred years ago, it was.

~Jim Goad

When you're indiscriminate in allowing people to post, the loudest and emptiest voices invariably drown out everyone else.

~Jim Goad

One day scientists will more fully understand the chemistry and neuro-circuitry that differentiates love from lust. I couldn't begin to explain the mechanics, but I know that they feel differently.

~Jim Goad

"Liberating" is a gay word, so let's phrase it this way: I know everything about me and still manage to be good friends with myself, so nothing anyone says that's truthful about me ever bothers me.

~Jim Goad

Different groups in different areas developed different traits to assure their survival.

~Jim Goad

It was simultaneously refreshing and a bit shocking to see how cavalierly most Aussies toss out slurs and insults about nonwhites.

~Jim Goad

He who trades his identity for money will one day wind up with neither.
