There is something very attractive about blonds, especially for brunettes. Its been said that blonds are loved and brunettes do the loving.

~Joan Juliet Buck

With short hair you begin to crave pearl necklaces, long earrings, and a variety of sunglasses. Short hair removes obvious femininity and replaces it with style.

~Joan Juliet Buck

I was a very polite schoolgirl who did her work very well and hid under tables. I'd hate to think I haven't changed at all.

~Joan Juliet Buck

My worst image of myself is me sitting on a bed, smoking a cigarette, waiting for a phone call and thinking thoughts that don't join together.

~Joan Juliet Buck

The thing about commuting internationally is that you have to be a lawyer or an airline steward to do it successfully.

~Joan Juliet Buck

When you're writing, you're demented, alone, and full of doubt. It feels dangerous.

~Joan Juliet Buck

The Germans have a wonderful combination of pathos, energy, and humor. They are like Californians with an education.

~Joan Juliet Buck

I'd like to live in Paris, New York, and Los Angeles all at the same time.

~Joan Juliet Buck

Paris is the only place where I feel that I lead a life that I can call my own.

~Joan Juliet Buck

I love being in borrowed houses. I love being a bit out of my context. I miss my context dreadfully, but I'm excited by that.

~Joan Juliet Buck

I'm scared that if I collaborated on something with somebody, I would be in some way losing my own contact with what I was going and tempting fate.

~Joan Juliet Buck

I get very weird and defensive about what I'm working on - I wouldn't even tell my secretary what the next page of my novel was about.

~Joan Juliet Buck

I only envy as basic old sexual jealousy.
