I AM a male chauvinist. Who's been saying otherwise?

~Joe Bob Briggs

Apparently we love our own cell phones but we hate everyone else's.

~Joe Bob Briggs

Everything changed in Bosnia, when General Wesley Clark proved that you could fight a war with high- level precision air strikes and a bare minimum of ground action.

~Joe Bob Briggs

If you hate what you're seeing, you call it sex and violence. If you like it, you call it "romance and adventure."

~Joe Bob Briggs

Discourse is fleeting, but junk mail is forever.

~Joe Bob Briggs

It's not a crime to get drunk.

~Joe Bob Briggs

A universal draft is most often the instrument of Third World dictators.

~Joe Bob Briggs

As I've said many times, the single most oppressed class in America right now is the teenager.

~Joe Bob Briggs

The best ally you can have in breaking up a street fight is a grandmother.

~Joe Bob Briggs

The fifties were when people started coming down on "juvenile delinquents," "hoodlums," "vandals"--anybody that was young, wore a motorcycle jacket, and didn't act polite around older people.

~Joe Bob Briggs

You're not a real Texan till you've been kicked out of every decent state in America.

~Joe Bob Briggs

There is no post-9/11. Everything from now until the end of time is post-9/11.

~Joe Bob Briggs

I made the mistake of watching "A.I." on cable the week they showed it about 792 times, and I ended up watching it every time it was on.

~Joe Bob Briggs

In some European theaters, it's still not uncommon to have a late start and three LONG intermissions, because people actually eat and drink and converse during the intermissions.

~Joe Bob Briggs

Speaking of things that'll make your head explode, "Dragon: The Bruce Lee Story" finally made it to the drive-in

~Joe Bob Briggs

Almost every venerable tradition at a men's club starts out as a joke.

~Joe Bob Briggs

Faith is like a kernel of wheat.
