I love you more than words. And I am a big fan of words.

~Joe Dunthorne

I took a photo of us, mid-embrace. When I am old and alone I will remember that I once held something truly beautiful.

~Joe Dunthorne

That's a big love letter," she says, squinting. I know what I'm going to say and for a moment I wish there was a film crew documenting my day-to-day life: "I've got a big heart," I say.

~Joe Dunthorne

I find that the only way to get through life is to picture myself in an entirely disconnected reality.

~Joe Dunthorne

Anger does not come easy to me. It is something I have to encourage, like a greyhound in second place.

~Joe Dunthorne

For my last birthday, Dad bought me a pocket-sized Collins English Dictionary. It would only fit in a pocket that had been specially designed.

~Joe Dunthorne

To us and a wonderful evening of love making.

~Joe Dunthorne

There will be birds and if they write your name in the sky then you can get on the buses and if they don't you have to die on the floor.

~Joe Dunthorne

Most people think of themselves as individuals, that there's no one on the planet like them. This thought motivates them to get out of bed, eat food and walk around like nothing's wrong.

~Joe Dunthorne

I would never say snog. I would say osculate." She looks at me as if to say: why do you exist?

~Joe Dunthorne

Write a diary, imagining that you are trying to make an old person jealous.

~Joe Dunthorne

...I want to grab her collarbones as if they were handlebars.

~Joe Dunthorne

It is strange to hear your mother talk about being human because, honestly, it's too easy to forget.

~Joe Dunthorne

Depression comes in bouts. Like boxing. Dad is in the blue corner.

~Joe Dunthorne

I bought a packet of Trojan® Ultra Pleasure Extra Sensitive condoms: 'No. 1 in AMERICA'. They smell nothing like a positive first sexual experience.
