So finally, I can feel a sort of pride in all my family - Mum, Lynn, Corin, Tasha, my cousin Gemma - because, I think how wonderful that this troop of gypsies can carry on telling stories.

~Joely Richardson

You grow up by making mistakes. I've made a ton of them, but as long as I keep on failing better, I don't mind.

~Joely Richardson

I think work really is a life saver, because it carries you forward, which is good.

~Joely Richardson

And whatever my weight, I've always been skinny from the waist up.

~Joely Richardson

Seize the day. Well, I aspire to that anyway.

~Joely Richardson

When I very first started out, I had that arrogance of youth.

~Joely Richardson

To newspapers and publishing houses I urge the use of fact over fiction, freedom of the press, and responsibility at all times.

~Joely Richardson

There's still a bit of a problem, in that so many leading English roles are taken by American or French actresses.

~Joely Richardson

I care so much less, now, about going up the ladder; if I cared about the ladder I would be doing it all very wrong.

~Joely Richardson

My mother, for the last 20 years anyway, would not call herself a Marxist but a human rights activist.

~Joely Richardson

I live quite an unsettled life.

~Joely Richardson

So often people say something and you realise you haven't really heard it.

~Joely Richardson

It's very difficult when there are pictures taken on the red carpet. I find those things so terrifying that another persona just kicks in. I don't recognise myself.
