Real love is to offer your life at the feet of another.

~John Ajvide Lindqvist

When there's nothing to see, when there are no thoughts, life comes instead.

~John Ajvide Lindqvist

That's how things are these days: everything must move aside to make room for the new, all the time.

~John Ajvide Lindqvist

But then, it's probably different when you're young.

~John Ajvide Lindqvist

A new life? There's not such thing. It was only in the magazine headlines that people got a new life. Stopped drinking or taking drugs, found a new love. But the same life.

~John Ajvide Lindqvist

This wasn't the way he had expected his life to be. It worked, but that was about all. Happiness had got lost somewhere along the way.

~John Ajvide Lindqvist

No one thought of anything but themselves. My happiness, my future was the only thing you heard. Real love is to offer your life at the feet of another, and that's what people today are incapable of

~John Ajvide Lindqvist

For a few seconds Oskar saw through Eli's eyes. And what he saw was...himself. Only much better, more handsome, stronger than what he thought of himself. Seen with love." (Let the Right One In)

~John Ajvide Lindqvist

Are you OLD?" "No. I'm only twelve. But I've been that for a long time.

~John Ajvide Lindqvist

What he was scared of was not that maybe she was a creature who survived by drinking other people's blood. No, it was that she might push him away.
