

John Buchanan Robinson Quotes

*Gold, Modern, Use, Interest, Paper, Credit, People, Currency, Insecure, May, Community, Interpretation, Special, Amount, Financial, Domination, Should,
Running, Thoughts And Emotions, Midst*

Your thoughts and emotions are yours alone.

~John Buchanan Robinson

In brief, egoism in its modern interpretation, is the antithesis, not of altruism, but of idealism.

~John Buchanan Robinson

There is never enough gold to redeem all the currency in circulation.

~John Buchanan Robinson

There is no word more generally misinterpreted than the word egoism, in its modern sense.

~John Buchanan Robinson

Paper currency has hitherto been regarded with suspicion, as insecure.

~John Buchanan Robinson

But the egoist has no ideals, for the knowledge that his ideals are only his ideals, frees him from their domination. He acts for his own interest, not for the interest of ideals.

~John Buchanan Robinson

The business of a bank is to lend money; which amounts, nowadays, to lending credit.

~John Buchanan Robinson

There is no other who experiences your thoughts or your feelings.

~John Buchanan Robinson

Large sums were paid for the use of money, because the available amount of gold and silver was far less than was needed to carry on the commercial transactions of the times.

~John Buchanan Robinson

Accordingly, when the supply of gold runs short, the security behind the notes is diminished, the loaning of notes is restricted or suspended, and the panic follows.

~John Buchanan Robinson

At present, financial crises occur, chiefly because the paper currency is redeemable in gold only.

~John Buchanan Robinson

The Massachusetts Land Bank, during Colonial times, prospered, and brought prosperity to the community, until it was forcibly suppressed by special act of Parliament.

~John Buchanan Robinson

For each one of us stands alone in the midst of a universe.

~John Buchanan Robinson

The egoist is fooled by no ideals: he discards them or uses them, as may suit his own interest.

~John Buchanan Robinson

Modern money is almost altogether credit money.

~John Buchanan Robinson

You are forever alone.

~John Buchanan Robinson

Not an old woman that buys a paper of pins, without yielding a part of the price to the banks as interest!

~John Buchanan Robinson

In precisely the same way money is often hired, and the hire paid for the use of it is called Interest.

~John Buchanan Robinson

According to your sympathy, you will take pleasure in your own happiness or in the happiness of other people; but it is always your own happiness you seek.

~John Buchanan Robinson

However near and dear to you may be your wife, children, friends, they are not you; they are outside of you.

~John Buchanan Robinson

It is often said by reformers that government should be conducted upon business principles.

~John Buchanan Robinson

Related Links:

- Gold Quotes
- Modern Quotes
- Use Quotes
- Interest Quotes
- Paper Quotes
- Credit Quotes
- People Quotes
- Currency Quotes
- Insecure Quotes
- May Quotes
- Community Quotes
- Interpretation Quotes
- Special Quotes
- Amount Quotes
- Financial Quotes
- Domination Quotes
- Should Quotes
- Running Quotes
- Thoughts And Emotions Quotes
- Midst Quotes