Not everybody is going to love what you do, but you have to be yourself, that's what's most important. Bring it as hard as you can.

~John Dyer Baizley

Art came fluidly, so I was able to teach myself many of the things I thought were important by copying and mimicking my artistic idols.

~John Dyer Baizley

The important thing isn't that your technically great, I think it's the power of your expression.

~John Dyer Baizley

Speak with your own voice and be as unique as you possibly can.

~John Dyer Baizley

Give your stuff away and if it's good, people will come to you.

~John Dyer Baizley

In fact, many musicians are the happiest when the artist and audience re-interpret or re-imagine the content of the songs.

~John Dyer Baizley

I take myself seriously and want my image to me more than just something aesthetically suited towards selling records.

~John Dyer Baizley

It's my intention to make something stand outside the realm of album art, but it also feels comfortable to me to be in it. It's tricky and definitely a requires striking a delicate balance.

~John Dyer Baizley

I feel like I've gotten to the point where when I get tired of making art I can make a smooth transition into making music and vice versa. There is always something to do.

~John Dyer Baizley

I really try to work with an artist who is trying to create a long legacy of quality rather than trying to jump aboard a trend.

~John Dyer Baizley

Punk rock and metal has always been a home to me, it's where I cut my teeth; and those are the friends that I have, and the bands that I love.

~John Dyer Baizley

I recognize that no matter how old I get, how many records I've done, or what the public perception of me is, there are still exciting things that I haven't done.
