I like engineering, but I love the creative input.

~John Dykstra

George Lucas wanted this moving camera for all of the photography in Star Wars. He was willing to take a risk with the concepts that I advanced with regard to ways for doing that.

~John Dykstra

I was involved in the color correction and the digital color correction. In an odd way, you end up making a film many times-the DVD, the archival record of a high-definition master, and so on.

~John Dykstra

I had done a lot of rock 'n' roll photography when I was in college. I was one of many photographers who worked for The Doors, Jefferson Airplane, and all of these rock 'n' roll bands.

~John Dykstra

I think that era of mechanically figuring out of how to bring a particular evocative image to the screen was a really important part of my education.

~John Dykstra

It's easy to create something that has a lot of luster, but it's very hard to make something that has a lot of depth.

~John Dykstra

If you can imagine it, we can make it.

~John Dykstra

Boy, am I glad there wasn't a fourth episode of Lord of the Rings.

~John Dykstra

If you understand how the real world feels and looks and sounds it is much easier to create a virtual version of the real world.
