Worlds going to hell anyway, have a good time.

~John Flansburgh

Look, up in the sky! It's the sky!

~John Flansburgh

I feel like musicians have such a precarious place in the political discourse, because musicians are, sort of just by nature, people-pleasers.

~John Flansburgh

It's hard to tell a shallow person that they should care more about the feelings of the awkward and the alienated.

~John Flansburgh

I wrote a thirty-second song that I couldn't finish for a year.

~John Flansburgh

We've been a band longer than most of the people reading this have been alive.

~John Flansburgh

There's so many simple things that can be done to change our carbon footprint, and to reduce our carbon footprint.

~John Flansburgh

I don't lose a lot of sleep worrying about aliens, but I think it seems possible that there's life forms beyond our solar system.

~John Flansburgh

Have you heard Alanis Morissette trying to play the harmonica? She doesn't know how to play the harmonica. Well guess what, Alanis, I INVENTED the 'don't-know-how-to-play-harmonica-harmonica-solo.'

~John Flansburgh

That's what I call 'Guiliani Time', my friends. 'We've got a problem. Let's kill it.'

~John Flansburgh

To a lot of people, angels are a matter of faith.

~John Flansburgh

You have to define how much of a cultural politician you are as a performer. There are times where I just want to remain a civilian.

~John Flansburgh

A lot of times I'll post things on Facebook, and the immediate response will be like, "Stick to the music!"

~John Flansburgh

People love fact-based songs, which is a very funny idea.

~John Flansburgh

All rock music is fake news.

~John Flansburgh

It sucks to think about, honestly, but when you really consider the resources that it takes to press vinyl records, or the amount of gas that it takes to tour, it's really quite scary.
