Deeds, not words shall speak me.

~John Fletcher

O woman, perfect woman! what distraction
Was meant to mankind
when thou wast made a devil!

~John Fletcher

We must not be content to be cleansed from sin; we must be filled with the Spirit.

~John Fletcher

Our acts our angels are, for good or ill, our fatal shadows that walk by us still.

~John Fletcher

The greatest attribute of heaven is mercy; And 'tis the crown of justice, and the glory

~John Fletcher

Of all the forms of wisdom, hindsight is by general consent the least merciful, the most unforgiving.

~John Fletcher

Weep no more, nor sigh, nor groan, Sorrow calls no time that 's gone;
Violets plucked, the sweetest rain
Makes not fresh nor grow again.

~John Fletcher

Speak boldly and speak truly, shame the devil.

~John Fletcher

Great actions speak great minds.

~John Fletcher

Death hath so many doors to let out life.

~John Fletcher

I find the medicine worse than the malady.

~John Fletcher

Corruption is a tree, whose branches are Of an immeasurable length: they spread Ev'rywhere; and the dew that drops from thence Hath infected some chairs and stools of authority.

~John Fletcher

Tyranny is yielding to the lust of the governing.

~John Fletcher

The coward's weapon, poison.

~John Fletcher

It's impossible to ravish me, I'm so willing.

~John Fletcher

A woman friend! He that believes that weakness, Steers in a stormy night without a compass.

~John Fletcher

Go far - too far you cannot, still the farther. The more experience finds you: and go sparing. One meal a week will serve you, and one suit, through all your travels; for you'll find it certain.

~John Fletcher

That soul that can Be honest is the only perfect man.

~John Fletcher

Come, sing now, sing; for I know you sing well; I see you have a singing face.

~John Fletcher

Charity and treating begin at home.

~John Fletcher

Then, everlasting Love , restrain thy will; 'Tis god -like to have power, but not to kill.

~John Fletcher

Drink today, and drown all sorrow; you shall perhaps not do tomorrow.

~John Fletcher

Hence, all you vain delights, As short as are the nights Wherein you spend your folly! There's naught in this life sweet But only melancholy;
O sweetest melancholy!

~John Fletcher

Joys as winged dreams fly fast, / Why should sadness longer last? /
Grief is but a wound to woe; / Gentlest fair, mourn, mourn no moe.

~John Fletcher

Care-charming Sleep, thou easer of all woes, brother to Death, sweetly thyself dispose.

~John Fletcher

Ask how to live? Write, write, write, anything; The world's a fine believing world, write news.

~John Fletcher

Only look to Jesus. He died for you, died in your place, died under the frowns of heaven, that we might die under its smile.

~John Fletcher

Man is his own star, and the soul that can Render an honest and a perfect man, Commands all light.

~John Fletcher

'Tis virtue, and not birth that makes us noble: Great actions speak great minds, and such should govern.

~John Fletcher

He who goes to bed, and goes to bed sober, Falls as the leaves do, and dies in October; But he who goes to bed, and goes to bed mellow,
Lives as he ought to do, and dies an honest fellow.
