I am proud to be an American, and proud that such beliefs are at the core of our country and its citizens.

~John Linder

Let us also reflect on the honorable service of our men and women of the U.S. Armed Forces currently serving our country overseas in Iraq and Afghanistan, and around the world.

~John Linder

The American patriots of today continue the tradition of the long line of patriots before them, by helping to promote liberty and freedom around the world.

~John Linder

In fact, things are moving along rather well in Iraq. Nothing is perfect, of course, and freedom is messy work. The cooperation of the three major interests in Iraq has been remarkable.

~John Linder

Mexico takes a hard line on immigration, demanding that visitors to her shores enter lawfully, and show her respect during their stay.

~John Linder

In just three years, Iraq has achieved immense progress. It has had three successful elections in which 80% of their citizens voted, even while being threatened with death.

~John Linder

The American people want economic prosperity, high-quality goods and low prices, all of which I support.

~John Linder

The U.S. Forces are winning in Iraq. It is to be hoped that they will win at home also.

~John Linder

The voters in my district, and around the country, have demanded that Congress get a hold on the influx of illegal immigrants and tighten the security around our borders.

~John Linder

It is simply a fact that the birth rate of our illegal immigrants exceeds that of our legal residents.

~John Linder

Our values and way of life will prevail - terrorism will not.

~John Linder

In today's world, new infections and diseases can spread across the country and even across the world in a matter of days, or even hours, making early detection critical.

~John Linder

Despite claims by some to the contrary, we have heard numerous times in hearings and briefings by experts that existing technologies do not fully or effectively detect nuclear material.
