It seems like there are always gatekeepers. People between you and the people who are moved by your work. They often make a beautiful thing creepy.

~John Lurie

I'd always maintained an image so that people wouldn't approach me.

~John Lurie

The loss of music is very painful, and I don't revisit stuff unless there is a solid reason to do it.

~John Lurie

I play music, I paint - these things come from your depths.

~John Lurie

What do you know about music, you're not a lawyer?

~John Lurie

The paintings usually start as abstracts and then I look at them and look at them, and like a Rorschach test, I try and see what it is.

~John Lurie

If someone who knows what's going on comes up and says they liked the music, I appreciate that.

~John Lurie

I guess I just want everything to be available immediately.

~John Lurie

But, you know, I'd be happy just making music.

~John Lurie
