It's great to be back on terra cotta

~John Prescott

Down in the south, it's how we find the brownfield sites without taking too much land take to meet the tremendous demand for housing, and that's what I've done.

~John Prescott

The Green Belt is a Labour achievement - and we mean to build on it.

~John Prescott

Because of the security reasons for one thing and, second, my wife doesn't like to have her hair blown about. Have you got another silly question?

~John Prescott

My roots, my background and the way I act is working class, but it would be hypsocritical to say I'm anything else than middle class now.

~John Prescott

I don't get a fair whack, I don't pursue vendettas or punch people on the nose.

~John Prescott

We believe the 36, nearly 40, billion pound discount given for a right to buy houses took a million houses out of the public housing sector which is desperately needed for rent.

~John Prescott

What we are beginning to witness is a whole new set of rules for economics, based on rationing resources.

~John Prescott

Improving the quality of life for people of this country is perhaps the most important duty of Government

~John Prescott

It's moving in the right direction. It was in decline under the previous administration.

~John Prescott

If you look at Newcastle or Gateshead, even over twenty years, even with the previous administration, it has moved quite remarkably in transforming itself.

~John Prescott

In a sense, what we do with the regional development agencies is to give them resources to look at the deficiencies in the economy in the regional areas, so they can address themselves to that.

~John Prescott

The only break I ever took was to eat. That's all I did. Work, and then quickly eat something. It became my main pleasure, having access to my comfort food.

~John Prescott

Labour economic stability has replaced Tory boom and bust

~John Prescott

My department is not too big for one man, because I'm Superman.

~John Prescott

He made an enormous contribution to British politics in opposition and in government [on Robin Cook]

~John Prescott

~John Prescott

Perhaps if England and Scotland together had one team we could at least beat the Germans.

~John Prescott

This was released I think in February and so it is a great deal of fuss being made, it hasn't in fact been given public release, it was released in February.

~John Prescott

When I see that man on the telly - 'Are you thinking what I'm thinking?' No! I'm definitely not! I find most of it quite offensive!

~John Prescott

We now have a satisfactory solution not only to coalition forces, but also to the Iraqi authorities themselves.

~John Prescott

In the north east, there, they have had quite a bit of government offices moving in. It's not a new policy.

~John Prescott

I will have failed in this if in five years there are not many more people using public transport and far fewer journeys by car. It is a tall order but I want you to hold me to it.

~John Prescott

There is progress taking place, growth is better. We're only talking about two years there.

~John Prescott

I have only been seeking to get them to the negotiating table and, thank God, that's where they are.
