Analog was perfected over 70 years, though. Digital will one day be fantastic. I'm sure of it.

~John Vanderslice

There's nothing like space and the ability to make unlimited amounts of noise at any time, especially in San Francisco.

~John Vanderslice

The world is just going to continue to fragment, and that's a great thing.

~John Vanderslice

Making love to robots will probably be great one day. It's just not a viable option right now.

~John Vanderslice

As a studio, you have to have a niche. You have to provide a service and there has to be a reason for your being around.

~John Vanderslice

Bands will always need studios. The more people there are recording at home, the more people there will be who are going to need a studio.

~John Vanderslice

I'm a collector, a tinkerer, and a tweaker, like a lot of people, and recording equipment is really easy to fetishize.

~John Vanderslice

In fact, it's in my interest to love digital recording, and I just spent a ton on a new digital recording system, so I speak from a place of heavy investment in both sides.

~John Vanderslice

There is definitely a nostalgia, and I am very sentimental, so I don't begrudge people for having sentimental feelings towards vinyl.
