Bands are about these little relationships that make everything tick, and when you create new music you're testing those relationships.

~Jonathan Cain

I guess God has a sense of humor, when he had a man that wanted to start his life as a priest, end up marrying a preacher.

~Jonathan Cain

When you're playing the same dirty dozen night after night, the moments that keep it fresh are those when you just let go and trust everyone.

~Jonathan Cain

I hope my music can minister to others and bring their hearts closer to God. It has been a different journey of faith and obedience and I am proud to give my time, treasure and talent to the Almighty.

~Jonathan Cain

I have been blessed in my life and want to return my gratitude unto my Lord.

~Jonathan Cain

We get sucked into the Internet and streaming information, and its time to just unplug and look within.

~Jonathan Cain

I remain God's humble servant.

~Jonathan Cain

My father was a deeply spiritual, prophetic man, [who] I adored. I watched him pray as a boy and wanted to know the "Jesus" he shed tears for.

~Jonathan Cain

I had my breakthrough at 6 years old and received the Lord, Jesus Christ. I was so swept up in the spirit, I told my parents I had future plans to enter the priesthood.

~Jonathan Cain

The different part of writing and singing worship lies in the identity and truth of God's Word and true intention for us as His followers on this Earth.

~Jonathan Cain

The parents used to drag the little ones, and now the kids are coming--and they're not little anymore. Things are evolving. Maybe there's a renaissance for our music.

~Jonathan Cain

I continue to steward what God has given for me for such a time as this.

~Jonathan Cain

God has provided true musical and spiritual restoration.

~Jonathan Cain

While doing visits to hospitals, I have prayed over children with life threatening illnesses and continue to bring Jesus to every stage I walk on.

~Jonathan Cain

I had abandoned my plans for priesthood and replaced them with dreams of being a musician.

~Jonathan Cain

A lot of people don't even know there was a Journey before Steve Perry.
