It's a very different feeling just sitting around the side, playing piano, and dancing around as opposed to standing in front and singing.

~Jonathan Meiburg

I don't feel [the] excitement you have when you first walk into a recording studio. It now feels like a tool.

~Jonathan Meiburg

I get more excited about like, "How nice is the piano?" or "How does the room sound?" I don't really see the gear so much anymore.

~Jonathan Meiburg

When you make a record, you probably are not going to hit exactly what you were aiming for. You also have to let go at a certain point, and just trust it.

~Jonathan Meiburg

I just like dealing with scientists for awhile and then going over and dealing with musicians for awhile. They both have qualities that kind of counterbalance each other.

~Jonathan Meiburg

I don't consider myself a very religious person in any.

~Jonathan Meiburg

The nice thing about being a band that nobody knows about is that you can do whatever you want.

~Jonathan Meiburg

I like having some things very clear while other things are obscured... so that it kind of keeps coming into and out of focus.

~Jonathan Meiburg

It's not like I'm narrating stories with music behind them. It's all kind of one thing. You hope you can provoke a specific emotional reaction, but in ways that aren't quite plain.
