When you ask "why", "what if" and "why not" you force yourself to explore what's possible and not just what is.

~Josh Linkner

Ask yourself this: If there was zero chance of failure, what would you do? Now, go do that.

~Josh Linkner

Anyone can notice wrong answers. It takes the creative person to notice the wrong questions.

~Josh Linkner

Most think as an OR. This OR that. The most successful among us think as an AND. This AND that.

~Josh Linkner

When we teach kids to follow the rules that there's only one right answer & to avoid mistakes at all costs, we're resigning them to average.

~Josh Linkner

If you stand for great service, low prices, superb quality, stylish design and environmental friendliness, you actually stand for nothing.

~Josh Linkner

Creativity is not a talent; It is a skill. A talent is something you are born with. A skill is something you learn.

~Josh Linkner

We can no longer rely on the rules of the past to win.

~Josh Linkner

You can't be great at everything, but you are world-class at something. Go. Figure out what that is. It's how you win.

~Josh Linkner

The inhibitor of creativity isn't potential it's fear. We worry about saying the wrong thing or looking foolish so we govern our imagination.

~Josh Linkner

A winner makes mistakes. A loser blames others for them.

~Josh Linkner

People who behave rarely make history.

~Josh Linkner

Institutions too often focus their energy preserving the problem to which they are a solution than to innovate their way to success.

~Josh Linkner

It's better to over-pay for A-level talent early on, even if you can't afford it. They will drive exponential value and help you win faster.

~Josh Linkner

Is the game plan you are currently running the most direct path to your destiny?

~Josh Linkner

Fear is the single biggest blocker of creativity.

~Josh Linkner

Mistakes aren't fatal; they are merely the portals of discovery.

~Josh Linkner

Want the thing you've never had? Then do the thing you've never done.

~Josh Linkner

Creativity is what will separate the winners from the also-rans in the emerging world of business - and life.
