[Pablo Escobar] always told me that the day he used the phone would be his last day, something I had very clear while I was talking to him.

~Juan Pablo Escobar

I am surprised that many people disregard the fact that the end for almost all drug dealers ends up being the cemetery or the jail cell, we do not know of any case where a drug dealer has "retired"

~Juan Pablo Escobar

I think it's a myth that one cannot leave any organization once you've entered one.

~Juan Pablo Escobar

I would say, and as I have said before, the series [Narcos] does not demonstrate real happenings but rather events that the screenwriters, in their own taste, believe depict the way we lived.

~Juan Pablo Escobar

I am convinced that we all have the decision to act on a daily basis.

~Juan Pablo Escobar

It's a shame to see drug dealers enter and leave the United States as if nothing in addition to those that purchase weapons and firearms.

~Juan Pablo Escobar

It's very difficult to resort to hating [Pablo Escobar] when all he gave you his entire life was love and all the best he ever had.

~Juan Pablo Escobar

It's important to learn from the past and people's experiences, not only from my father's [Pablo Escobar] as a drug dealer, but from others that have ended just the way he did.

~Juan Pablo Escobar

Yes, of course my father harmed and caused a lot of damage but both stories are true. He did things to help and destroy Colombia, both are true.

~Juan Pablo Escobar

In reality, my father [Pablo Escobar ] always interrupted others to be with his family. My father's priority was always the family.

~Juan Pablo Escobar

My whole life I had seen my father solve every problem he had through the use of violence.

~Juan Pablo Escobar

Regrettably, to deactivate an entire cartel also proved to be a difficult task for my father and with all the enemies he had, even more.

~Juan Pablo Escobar

To be quite honest my country [Colombia] still shows that it can be intolerant.

~Juan Pablo Escobar

I was perhaps one of the few people that were not part of [Pablo Escobar] group of yes-men because I was not a direct beneficiary of the violence that his actions generated.

~Juan Pablo Escobar

What we experience in Colombia is fratricide, we fight ourselves and it demonstrates the priority of hatred over peace and reconciliation.

~Juan Pablo Escobar

Sadly, [Pablo Escobar] ended up throwing away the one opportunity he had. I naively thought, as a son and as many other Colombians, that he would take this opportunity to make amends with the country.

~Juan Pablo Escobar

I did not like [Pablo Escobar] actions because I did not think it was right to have bombs placed in a non-discriminatory fashion throughout the entire country.

~Juan Pablo Escobar

I argued constantly with my father [Pablo Escobar] because I never liked all the violence that he created.

~Juan Pablo Escobar

Unfortunately, on my father's side we have a nonexistent relationship. But my mother and sister and I live very closely, we remain in the same city and we see each other every day.

~Juan Pablo Escobar

My sister, my mother and I are great friends. We have always valued our immediate family immensely, something we learned from my father.

~Juan Pablo Escobar

Throughout the series [Narcos], I appear younger and younger - I don't know why that is particular to Netflix, to show the evolution of Pablo Escobar's children in that manner.

~Juan Pablo Escobar

I am a good man and I behave well on an everyday basis. It was not a decision of waking up one day and saying "I will be a good person today, problem solved", no, it has to be an everyday thing.

~Juan Pablo Escobar

I think one has to be aware that a change needs to be made to improve one's life and then there will always be alternatives and choices that can lead you away from a life of violence.
