I don't want to go to the Bahamas on holiday. I hate islands. I want to go to Brittany, where it's cold and raining, and there's nothing fancy about it.

~Julie Delpy

Too many women throw themselves into romance because they're afraid of being single, then start making compromises and losing their identity. I won't do that.

~Julie Delpy

You can never replace anyone because everyone is made up of such beautiful specific details.

~Julie Delpy

I'm an adaptable nomad. I love Paris, I've been living in Los Angeles and New York since 1990. I love London, too. My roots are inside of me.

~Julie Delpy

I was six years old when I saw my first Godard movie, eight when I first experienced Bergman. I wanted to be a director when I was fourteen.

~Julie Delpy

My therapist in Paris once told me that being creative is a better form of therapy for me than sitting on his couch.

~Julie Delpy

Isn't everything we do in life a way to be loved a little more?

~Julie Delpy

I can't really explain the feeling of acting. It makes you the most insecure you can possibly be.

~Julie Delpy

Maybe I'm a bit of a psycho-but I'd rather be psycho than boring.

~Julie Delpy

I love the acting process. What I don't like is what's around it. The auditions and being rejected every other day. The look thing. That you have to lose weight, that you have to do Botox.

~Julie Delpy

I love making movies. I love writing. I love acting. I love it, and I feel really blessed to be able to actually make a living with something I love doing.

~Julie Delpy

We didn't want to disrupt the creative process. We have the chance to make the films we want because the films are not expensive. It's very rare to be able to do that. It's completely pure.

~Julie Delpy

Whether it's friendship or love. The essence of is two people trying to share something. When I think of how I met my best friends, it was always like love at first sight.

~Julie Delpy

Basically, editing is done in rehearsal and in the writing process and in the acting, so it's very, very tricky, very, very tricky.

~Julie Delpy

I avoid confrontation. When I'm on set I never snap at anyone. I don't have a temper.

~Julie Delpy

My dad has always been such a great dad, and he's brought so much culture to my life. He dragged me to see every single movie at the cin  matheque as a kid. I saw everything from Star Wars to Bergman.

~Julie Delpy

It's a typical story: you think of something, it stays in the back of your head for a while, and then you finally do it.

~Julie Delpy

The truth is I don't see a lot of movies. I see the Oscar films. I see the films that are sent to me and a few films throughout the year.

~Julie Delpy

I'm quite neurotic, usually. But when it comes to work, I become extremely focused.

~Julie Delpy

I want to be positive and say: everything I've written will get made eventually.

~Julie Delpy

A lot of new American directors have had mentors who have given them advice. And some of them have had the way paved for them by huge Hollywood directors who saw a younger version of themselves.

~Julie Delpy

I've had this opportunity to get some of my financing out of Europe, which has helped tremendously, so I'm not completely dependent on the studio system or on U.S. financing.

~Julie Delpy

I've directed five films and I've proven that people have made money with my films - many people have made money with my films.

~Julie Delpy

I've proven that I'm not a complete failure. Every film has done well. It's like, "So, okay, when do I get my deal at Warner Bros?"

~Julie Delpy

Usually I'm able to imagine something and it comes out as I imagined, more or less.

~Julie Delpy

And I realized that directing actors is really important because that's what ends up on screen.

~Julie Delpy

I think I do find humor in disorder, and reality is disorder.

~Julie Delpy

Never take no for an answer. It took me 20 years between the time I wrote my first screenplay and the time I actually got money to direct a movie.
