

Julie Garwood Quotes

Men, Heart, Eye, Thinking, Husband, Father, Wife, Love You, Promise, Hurt, Feet, Daughter, Swear To God, Falling In Love, Married, Hands, Looks, Warrior, Knows, Taken

trust your heart but use your head

~Julie Garwood

Education isn't just about feeding the brain. Art and music feed the heart and soul.

~Julie Garwood

One whisper, added to a thousand others, becomes a roar of discontent

~Julie Garwood

Never be ruled by possessions, and never, ever make wealth more important to you than your self-respect and your dignity." - Lady Taylor

~Julie Garwood

If you begin to give away parts of yourself, eventually you'll give it all. And once you've lost yourself, haven't you lost everything?

~Julie Garwood

foolish men say things in anger that they later regret and an angry tongue does not mean one is guilty.

~Julie Garwood

Someday, my love, you're going to understand just how much I care for you. You're my light, my warmth, my other half. I only feel alive when I'm with you. I love you." Caine

~Julie Garwood

Respect was earned, not demanded, but dignity was taught by example.

~Julie Garwood

Going for it and changing what you could change-that's what success was all about.

~Julie Garwood

sometimes the most simple conclusion is also the most correct

~Julie Garwood

It's a sin to hate, and for that reason alone, we must not hate the Normans... We can, however, thoroughly dislike them, Alice.

~Julie Garwood

I just want to make people smile.

~Julie Garwood

A woman can't do anything about her appearance. Either she's pretty or she isn't. But her character is quite another matter.

~Julie Garwood

Everything is your fault. You made me fall in love with you, and now I'm so upset I can't think or sleep or eat.

~Julie Garwood

You'll be sorry if you marry a man you don't love.

~Julie Garwood

The man irritated her just like a rash.

~Julie Garwood

"I will find her." "And when you do?" Roger asked. "I will make her mine," the warrior answered in a hard, determined voice. "She will be mine." The vow was made.

~Julie Garwood

"Do you have feelings for this kind man?" "You shouldn't ask her such a question," Frances Catherine said. "But do you, Gillian?"

~Julie Garwood

"Nick?" "I'm still here, Laurant." "Did you tell Tommy we slept together?" "No, but you just did. He's standing right here." She fell asleep. But this time she didn't have any dreams or nightmare.

~Julie Garwood

You've given me value, Duncan. In my heart I know I matter to you.

~Julie Garwood

Don't you dare weep," he commanded. "You've broken my heart." "I'll fix it later.

~Julie Garwood

I'm wearing clothes in my thoughts and dreams though. What am I wearing in yours?" she asked. "Me." Conversation between Mary Rose and Harrison in Julie Garwood's FOR THE ROSES

~Julie Garwood

For though Duncan was a mere mortal, flawed as well, he'd accomplished a daring feat. Aye, he'd captured an angel. And she belonged to him.

~Julie Garwood

He who controls the remote, controls the world

~Julie Garwood

Brenna jumped to her feet the second Father Sinclair entered the chamber. "I'm so happy to see you," she cried out. "Be happy sitting down," Jamie ordered, hovering over her patient like a mother hen.

~Julie Garwood

Let me know, Iain." "Let you know what?" "If you're going to keep her or not." "And if I'm not?" "Then I am.

~Julie Garwood

As a matter of fact, she has refused to marry me.â€• â€œSo when's the wedding?â€• Ramsey asked.

~Julie Garwood

Daydreams were dangerous because they made her wish for things she could never have.

~Julie Garwood

But she would never forget Brodick... or the spontaneous kiss he'd given her that had meant nothing to him and everything to her.

~Julie Garwood

Take pride away from a man and you might as well run a knife through his heart.

~Julie Garwood

Knowledge is freedom and with freedom comes understanding.

~Julie Garwood

Flirting is the first step in a long process of finding the right man or woman.

~Julie Garwood

You're taller than I am, but I'm stronger, and meaner right this minute than you could ever imagine" - Lady Madelyne.

~Julie Garwood

When you brush your teeth, I'll squeeze the toothpaste.

~Julie Garwood

If you get yourself killed, I'll find your grave and spit on it," she threatened.

~Julie Garwood

You're bruised, as ugly as one of your Cyclops, and I can barely stand to look at you." - Duncan to Madelyne.

~Julie Garwood

I've just vowed my love for you. Have you nothing to say in return?"
Duncan asked. "Thank you, husband.

~Julie Garwood

Madelyne, we're married now. 'Tis a usual occurrence to bed one's wife on the wedding night.

~Julie Garwood

courting is for those who have not declared their love for one another- should not be considered a task.

~Julie Garwood

physical beauty should have no importance in a lasting relationship.

~Julie Garwood

Lady Madelyne had sealed her own fate. She'd warmed his feet.

~Julie Garwood

Gabrielle turned to Colm. "These men will be of interest to you." Colm looked them over. "Why is that?" he asked. With her back to the infidels, she whispered, "They like to dig holes.

~Julie Garwood

Oh, there was a wedding all right. Did I mention that my sister didn't show up at the church either, Mr. Clayborne?

~Julie Garwood

Noah, if we were to get married, you couldn't date anymore.

~Julie Garwood

Is he all right?" Jade asked Sterns. He Swooned" I know he swooned," Jade replied.

~Julie Garwood

Get off me. You weigh more than the doors to your home.

~Julie Garwood

She let him know how much she liked what he was doing by scoring his back with her nails and crying out with pleasure. "Oh, God." "Nay, lass. Connor.

~Julie Garwood

Isabelle, it's all right for you to be a little afraid, but you should also be very excited and joyful, too. You're about to bring a new life into this world." "I would rather Winslow do it.

~Julie Garwood

Judith took a deep breath. "Aye, you captured Iain's wife," she said again. "But he married your daughter.

~Julie Garwood

Any man who lives by his beliefs is to be admired, not mocked.

~Julie Garwood

Going to university is only one avenue to gain knowledge. There are others. A degree isn't insurance against ignorance.

~Julie Garwood

I like writing about friends.

~Julie Garwood

I love historical romance, absolutely love it.

~Julie Garwood

I know the truth now. You've figured out I'm falling in love with you and you're trying to make me stop by hurting me this way. Well it won't work.

~Julie Garwood

Women bond differently, and I don't think men understand that.

~Julie Garwood

My wife." "By what name is she called, Kincaid?" "Mine.

~Julie Garwood

- Diana: "Christina said the strangest thing." - Lyon: "Of course she did.

~Julie Garwood

Douglas: You really got to stop doing that. Isabel: Doing what?

Douglas: Getting prettier everyday.

~Julie Garwood

Madeleine, I would like to speak to you in private after dinner."

"Speak to me about what?" Madeleine demanded with a disgruntled look. "Men and their horses," Duncan told her

~Julie Garwood

I love you. We're getting married, and that's the way it is. Get used to it.

~Julie Garwood

When she was rested. she'd find a way to escape. It was the duty of the captive, wasn't it?

~Julie Garwood

You take my heart with you, my loving captor." "Nay, Madelyne. I am your captive in body and soul.

~Julie Garwood

Related Links:

- Men Quotes
- Heart Quotes
- Eye Quotes
- Thinking Quotes
- Husband Quotes
- Father Quotes
- Wife Quotes
- Love You Quotes
- Promise Quotes
- Hurt Quotes
- Feet Quotes
- Daughter Quotes
- Swear To God Quotes
- Falling In Love Quotes
- Married Quotes
- Hands Quotes
- Looks Quotes
- Warrior Quotes
- Knows Quotes
- Taken Quotes