You are my heart, my life, my entire existence.

~Julie Kagawa

My fall began, as many stories do, with a girl.

~Julie Kagawa

Oh, we're playing nice now? Shall we have tea first? Brew up a nice pot of kiss-my-ass?

~Julie Kagawa

A little warning would've been nice. You couldn't have said, "Hey, as part of your training today, I'm going to beat you senseless'?"

~Julie Kagawa

My, aren't we bossy today. Give a girl an army and it goes straight to her head.

~Julie Kagawa

You will always be a monster - there is no turning back from it. But what kind of monster you become is entirely up to you.

~Julie Kagawa

I don't believe in fate," he said carefully, "but... I do believe everything happens for a reason. That there is some plan, some meaning to this darkness we live in.

~Julie Kagawa

And I swear, if there is a way for us to be together, I will find it. No matter how long it takes. If I have to chase your soul to the ends of eternity, I won't stop until I find you, I promise.

~Julie Kagawa

Touch her, and I'll freeze your testicles off and put them in a jar. Understand?

~Julie Kagawa

As cities grow and technology takes over the world, belief and imagination fade away, and so do we.

~Julie Kagawa

It's not the physical scars that are the most painful.

~Julie Kagawa

I was Ashallayn'darkmyr Tallyn, son of Mab, former prince of the Unseelie Court, and I was not afraid of a witch on a broom.

~Julie Kagawa

I guess the sacrifice of my dignity is the only thing that will save us now. The things I endure for love. The Fates laugh at my torment.

~Julie Kagawa

Who knows what goes on in the mind of a cat?

~Julie Kagawa

Do not lose your heart to a faery prince. It never ends well.

~Julie Kagawa

I get up, get coffee, and go into my home office. I check email and Twitter before I start work, but I have to try not to get too distracted.

~Julie Kagawa

I wished that, for once, faery tales - real faery tales, not Disney fairy tales - would have a happy ending.

~Julie Kagawa

I worked at a Books-a-Million in Louisville for several years.

~Julie Kagawa

I was a huge bookworm as a kid, and you could usually find me reading something with a dragon on its cover.

~Julie Kagawa

When I wrote my first story, all the characters were teenagers because I think 16, 17 is a great age.

~Julie Kagawa

How easy it is to forget grudges when someone has something you need.

~Julie Kagawa

You don't dwell on what you've lost, you just move on.

~Julie Kagawa

I like all my characters in one way or another, or at least I understand them.

~Julie Kagawa

Robin Goodfellow, for all his pranks and mischief, was the sweetest, most noble person I'd ever known, and I'd missed him terribly.

~Julie Kagawa

I know what it's like to miss someone. To feel like you're just wandering around, lost.

~Julie Kagawa

You're here, and the only dance I want is this one.

~Julie Kagawa

I was minding my own business long before you and the princess started humping like rabbits.

~Julie Kagawa

Metallic trees. That's new. If you see any steel dryads, be sure to tell me so I can run away screaming.

~Julie Kagawa

It was fine and good to be defiant to the end, but it was better not to get caught in the first place.

~Julie Kagawa

I've always wanted the IQ of a rock. No, wait. That would be an insult to the rock.

~Julie Kagawa

There are only those you can live with, and those you can work to change.

~Julie Kagawa

Be careful, boy. In some tales, the hero gets eaten by the monster after all .

~Julie Kagawa

Eventually we will all wither and die in the wasteland of logic and science.

~Julie Kagawa

Overall, I'd say I was an awesome bookseller, but probably not the best book shelver. I loved recommending books and helping people find books.

~Julie Kagawa

Fear was the knowledge of pain, the awareness that you could be hurt, that you could die.
