With courage and hope, we can conquer our fears and do what we once believed impossible.

~Juliet Marillier

The future was in our own hands. If we wanted a world where such things were possible, it was for us to make it.

~Juliet Marillier

My feet will tread soft as a deer in the forest. My mind will be clear as water from the sacred well. My heart will be strong as a great oak. My spirit will spread an eagle's wings, and fly forth.

~Juliet Marillier

And as I watched him, I knew that in every dark night there was, somewhere, a small light burning that could never be quenched.

~Juliet Marillier

I should have realized, when Cathal kissed me in the hallway, that my response was the first raindrop heralding a storm.

~Juliet Marillier

In all experience, there is something to be learned. In deepest sorrow, wisdom is found. In the well of despair, hope rises.

~Juliet Marillier

You are... you're like a beating heart. A glowing lamp. I've never met anyone like you before.

~Juliet Marillier

Come, dear heart. Lean on me and let us walk this path together.

~Juliet Marillier

I wonder how it takes you, that moment when everything turns to shadows. - Somerled.

~Juliet Marillier

I've loved fairytales, folklore and mythology since I was a small child, and I think it was inevitable that they would influence my style and my development of stories.

~Juliet Marillier

You will find the way, daughter of the forest. Through grief and pain, through many trials, through betrayal and loss, your feet will walk a straight path.

~Juliet Marillier

As for religious faith, a lack of it shouldn't stop us from doing good deeds for their own sake.

~Juliet Marillier

Trust is a thing you know without words.

~Juliet Marillier

She seemed fragile like a moonflower - destined to bloom for a single lovely night, and then to fade and fall.

~Juliet Marillier

Wake the sleeper must, and confront his fears, or risk being lost in the dark places of the mind forever.

~Juliet Marillier

Every man or woman who makes a stand helps keep the flame of freedom burning.

~Juliet Marillier

I know it's hard for you to trust me. If I ever find the man who did this to you, who made you so frightened, I'll kill him with my bare hands. But you can trust me.

~Juliet Marillier

More like some small, fierce bird of prey, something with a sharp bite.
An owl perhaps, that speaks only when the rest of the world sleeps.
Jenny will do well enough.

~Juliet Marillier

Breath of the winds; dancing flame; peace of the earth; song of the waves.

~Juliet Marillier

Our strength comes from that magic, from the earth and the sky, from the fire and the water. Fly high, swim deep, give back to the earth what she gives you.

~Juliet Marillier

Brilliant minds make errors, brave souls falter, kind hearts leave scars.
We are none of us perfect, but we're all perfectly human.

~Juliet Marillier

I wish- I wish I could dry these tears, I wish I could make this better for you. But I don't know how.

~Juliet Marillier

How can he do this? If you were mine, I would fight to keep you. I would die, before I let you go.

~Juliet Marillier

Hope is such a tenuous quality. To feel it and then to be denied what one most longs for ... Better, surely, not to hope at all, than to open the heart to a hope that is impossible.

~Juliet Marillier

I like the truth, even when it does trouble me.

~Juliet Marillier

Because if I see you defeated, then I think I will see Alban defeated, and if that happens, none of us can go on. To guard you is to guard the heart of this land of ours.

~Juliet Marillier

You may be your own best helper, if you choose the right path.

~Juliet Marillier

The warmth of his embrace soaked into me, a powerful charm against the dark things.

~Juliet Marillier

Death, of course, should not be feared, but awaited with certain wonder. To die was to step across a threshold into a new world, unknown, unimaginable.

~Juliet Marillier

His thoughts inhabit a different plane from those of ordinary men; the simplest interpretation of that is to call him crazy.

~Juliet Marillier

As for me, I had found love, and that was a gift worth suffering for.

~Juliet Marillier

Trust can be a hard lesson; hope still more difficult.

~Juliet Marillier

Nobody expects you to exhibit godlike strength, excepting maybe yourself.

~Juliet Marillier

Ask us for any help you need...Let us be strong for you.

~Juliet Marillier

The world is simple, I think, in its essence. Life, death, love, hate. Desire, fulfillment. Magic.

~Juliet Marillier

For indeed you have a choice. You can flee and hide, and wait to be found. You can live out your days in terror, without meaning. Or you can take the harder choice, and you can save them.

~Juliet Marillier

We cannot know the future. All we can do is face it bravely. We should take heed of those we love and respect. But in the end, we make every decision alone.

~Juliet Marillier

This had been real: real in its flaws and uncertainties, real in its small triumphs, real in its compromises and understanding.

~Juliet Marillier

I wanted so much to keep you safe. I did my best. I'm sorry things didn't come out different for the two of us. I wish I could have been good enough for you.

~Juliet Marillier

Become my friend and you embrace a nightmare.

~Juliet Marillier

I thought of betrayal and how it came so easily - in a word, a glance, a gesture.

~Juliet Marillier

With respect," said Red, and his voice had gone so quiet people hushed each other to hear him, "my tale is yet unfinished; you should hear me out. And it is her answer I have come to hear, not yours.

~Juliet Marillier

Liadan," he said, staring intently at the ground. "Yes," I whispered. "Don't wed that man Eamonn. Tell him, if he takes you, he's a dead."

--Bran

~Juliet Marillier

Nothing comes without a price.

~Juliet Marillier

Only - only that, if you believe the tales, it's in the nature of our people to go to war and to kill, just as it is to sing and play and tell stories. Perhaps they are two halves of the same whole.

~Juliet Marillier

You don't like it that I am the one you need to keep the wolf from the door; that comes as no surprise. But I am the one you have. At some point we'll both have to risk telling the truth.

~Juliet Marillier

My world was changing, and I was not ready for it.

~Juliet Marillier

What I do . . . the path I tread . . . it brings some choices that test me hard.

~Juliet Marillier

As a novelist, I'm endlessly fascinated by human behavior and interactions.

~Juliet Marillier

Water and stone
Flesh and bone
Night and morn
Rose and thorn
Tree and wind
Heart and mind

~Juliet Marillier

Good and bad; shade and sunlight, there's but a hair's breath between them. It's all one in the end.

~Juliet Marillier

a tree is never just a tree, it is bigger and deeper and wiser than a girl like you will ever be.

~Juliet Marillier

There is no truth on this island of yours. Rather, there are as many truths as there are stars in the sky; and every one of them different.

~Juliet Marillier

Even in that time of utter darkness, somewhere deep inside me the memory of love and goodness had stayed alive.

~Juliet Marillier

You cannot poison what is between us with your foul words. She is my light in the darkness and Johnny is my pathway ahead.

~Juliet Marillier

But I believe we all have an inner goodness; a little flame that stays alight through the worst of trials.

~Juliet Marillier

All that he had of her was his memory, where he held every moment, every single moment that she had been his. That was all he had, to keep out the loneliness.

~Juliet Marillier

She went on because there was no going back.

~Juliet Marillier

If a man has to say trust me, Gogu conveyed, it's a sure sign you cannot. Trust him, that is. Trust is a thing you know without words.

~Juliet Marillier

There is no good or evil, save in the way you see the world. There is no dark or light save in your own.

~Juliet Marillier

Stronger than iron crueller than death sweeter than springtime it lives beyond breath

~Juliet Marillier

I would hold on, and hold on, until my hands clutch at emptiness.

~Juliet Marillier

Eat of my deep earth, drink of my living streams, for I am your Mother. Your heart is my wild drum, your breath my eternal song. If you would live, dance with me!

~Juliet Marillier

This is a long goodbye, yet not time enough. I have no aptitude for this. I cannot learn this. I would hold on, and hold on, until my hands clutch at emptiness.

~Juliet Marillier

He and I we share a bond. Not love, exactly. It goes beyond that. He is mine as surely as sun follows moon across the sky. Mine before ever I knew he existed. Mine until death and beyond.

~Juliet Marillier

The most powerful weapon is hope.

~Juliet Marillier

A dream is the key that unlocks the mysteries of the waking world.
