We do not want to lead or be led. We want to be free.

~Karl Hess

Whenever you put your faith in big government for any reason, sooner or later you wind up an apologist for mass murder.

~Karl Hess

No person is so grand or wise or perfect as to be the master of another person. Teacher, perhaps. Setter of good example, perhaps. Genius, perhaps. But master, no.

~Karl Hess

Liberty, finally, is not a box into which people are to be forced. Liberty is a space in which people may live. It does not tell you how they will live. It says, eternally, only that we can.

~Karl Hess

The Declaration of Independence is so lucid were afraid of it today. It scares the hell out of every modern bureaucrat, because it tells them there comes a time when we must stop taking orders.

~Karl Hess

To survive, the people in neighborhoods are going to have to secede.

~Karl Hess

The most revolutionary thing you can do is get to know your neighbors.

~Karl Hess

When you put your faith in big government, you end up an apologist for mass murder.

~Karl Hess

In a laissez-faire society, there could exist no public institution with the power to forcefully protect people from themselves. From other people

(criminals), yes. From one's own self, no.

~Karl Hess

All who love Liberty are enemies of the state.

~Karl Hess

The revolution occurs when the victims cease to cooperate.

~Karl Hess

The dinosaurs invented Jesus to test our confidence in science.

~Karl Hess

The fundamental question of politics has always been whether there should be politics.

~Karl Hess

A 7-11 parking lot beat down is how life is.
