Love - true love - is a precious thing. It is painful, uncomfortable, makes fools of us all, but it is what breathes meaning and color and purpose into our lives.

~Kate Mosse

We are who we are, because of those we choose to love and because of those who love us.

~Kate Mosse

I am not a fan of historical fiction that is sloppy in its research or is dishonest about the real history.

~Kate Mosse

Free and fair access to books - to reading - is a right and one we should fight for.

~Kate Mosse

Library campaigners are not prepared to stand by and watch something they cherish be dismantled brick by brick.

~Kate Mosse

For when all else is done, only words remain. Words endure.

~Kate Mosse

What we leave behind in this life is the memory of who we were and what we did. An imprint, no more.

~Kate Mosse

Pas a pas, se va luenh. Step by step, we make our way.

~Kate Mosse

There comes always a moment when the desire to act, however ill the cause, is stronger than the wish to listen.

~Kate Mosse

Usually I decide on what it is I'm writing next by the books I'm reading.

~Kate Mosse

Actually, I can write anywhere - airport lounges, in bed, on a rattling train going north.

~Kate Mosse

There's no black and no white, just shades of grey...But the small betrayals lead to bigger ones, morality is eroded.

~Kate Mosse

I really like people and I keep friendships. I have people from all parts of my life.

~Kate Mosse

The dead leave their shadows, an echo of the space within which once they lived. They haunt us, never fading or growing older as we do. The loss we grieve is not just their futures but our own.

~Kate Mosse

What we attempt to do is not without danger. What we attempt to do may not succeed. But it is right and it is just. We act for the good of all.

~Kate Mosse

One cannot always marry the person one loves.

~Kate Mosse

Lots of people have objections to prizes of all types, and it would be extraordinary if everybody agreed on anything that's worthwhile - they never do.

~Kate Mosse

I read a lot of thrillers, especially American crime novels.

~Kate Mosse

History is written by the victors, the strongest, the most determined.
Truth is found most often in the silence, in the quiet places.

~Kate Mosse

Too often I am jealous and my jealousy leads me to say things-things-that I regret.

~Kate Mosse

People have different views of how you deal with different issues in literature, and, frankly, long may it last that there is a range of views.

~Kate Mosse

People think that I'm very serious.
