The more you learn, I think the more you realise who you are and what you want and what you believe and what you want to be and where you want to end up.

~Kate Nash

You can grow flowers from where dirt use to be.

~Kate Nash

I've been accused of deliberately hamming up my accent and dropping letters, but that's just how I speak - I used to be a chav.

~Kate Nash

Jealousy is not a nice feeling, I hate feeling jealous. But if you can admit it and laugh at yourself, then that's a good way of dealing with your feelings.

~Kate Nash

Just because you have political beliefs or feminist beliefs, you don't have to like everybody, you don't have to like everything.

~Kate Nash

People don't know how to deal with stress and depression, so they're nasty to other people because it makes them feel better about themselves.

~Kate Nash

The more you relate to something or somebody speaks to you, it means more. I think that putting yourself out there like heart-on-sleeve, is really important.

~Kate Nash

People are scared. People are generally xenophobic - they're scared of what's different. If you're ignorant as well as scared, then you might end up hating something that you're scared of.

~Kate Nash

I think the media put more pressure on women, especially in regards to the way they look and how they're supposed to behave.

~Kate Nash

I can watch a sunset on my own.

~Kate Nash

I love reading books, I love the way they feel and getting through it. It's like an event!

~Kate Nash

I think it's really important to always own up to the things that you're not good at and the feelings that you have which are ugly.

~Kate Nash

I feel like women, especially in music, aren't really given as much respect as men. Sexism really exists.

~Kate Nash

Singing is something I've always loved - I'm not sure what I would do without it!

~Kate Nash

I've always loved punk music, so it was really cool to do my first punk song.

~Kate Nash

I guess, there are always people that you latch onto that really inspire you.
