Florence - the city of tranquillity made manifest.

~Katherine Cecil Thurston

A good horse is the best company in the world.

~Katherine Cecil Thurston

Light love is desire of pleasure; great love is fear of being alone.

~Katherine Cecil Thurston

To give! To give without hope of recompense, without question, without fear! That was the message of life.

~Katherine Cecil Thurston

Most prisons have wide gates!

~Katherine Cecil Thurston

No weapons are more potent than brevity and simplicity.

~Katherine Cecil Thurston

Failure may be cruel, but success is crueller still. The gods are usurers, you know; they lend to mortals, but they exact a desperate interest.

~Katherine Cecil Thurston

Nobody is such an individualist as the man who advocates equality.

~Katherine Cecil Thurston

We have all of us the two natures - the brother and the sister! Not one of us is quite woman - not one of us is all man!

~Katherine Cecil Thurston

It is sacrilege to attempt analysis of birth or love or death. Death and birth, the mysteries! Love, the revelation!

~Katherine Cecil Thurston

Cynicism ... is the trade-mark of failure.

~Katherine Cecil Thurston

in this curious world there are certain beings to whom it is given to say of all things with naïve faith, not 'I shall seek,' but 'I shall find.

~Katherine Cecil Thurston

We Irish are born dreamers; sometimes we never wake up at all, and then we're counted failures.

~Katherine Cecil Thurston

Enthusiasm is ever a gracious, pardonable thing, because in its essentials are youth and zeal and all high, white-hot qualities whose roots strike not in the base earth.

~Katherine Cecil Thurston

by the mercy of God all the ideas of youth are reversible!

~Katherine Cecil Thurston

An eight-mile drive over rain-washed Irish roads in the quick-falling dusk of autumn is an experience trying to the patience, even to the temper, of the average Saxon.

~Katherine Cecil Thurston

A night journey is essentially a thing of possibilities.
