I closed my eyes, took a deep breath, and filled myself up with the breeze from the valley. Then I let it out slow so it could get back to its travels, with a little bit of me added to it.

~Katherine Hannigan

We don't own the earth. We are the earth's caretakers...we take care of it and all the things on it. And when we're done with it, it should be left better than we found it.

~Katherine Hannigan

I believe good plans are the best way to maximize fun, avoid disaster, and possibly, save the world. I spend a lot of my time making them.

~Katherine Hannigan

...when your heart changes, you change, and you have to make new plans.

~Katherine Hannigan

I just loved making words into stories by the sound of my voice.

~Katherine Hannigan

Apologizing is like spring cleaning.

~Katherine Hannigan

...if a child waited to speak until all the grown-ups settled down and gave her some room to say her piece, the most important things would never get said.

~Katherine Hannigan

Sadness is a powerful foe, maybe harder to keep down than happiness.

~Katherine Hannigan

In the morning I'm like a snake in the spring: I need to lie out on a warm rock and let the sun sink into me before I can start wiggling around and get on with the day.

~Katherine Hannigan

There's more than one way to tell each other things, and there's more than one way to listen, too.

~Katherine Hannigan

I was saying the right things, but not the really true things.

~Katherine Hannigan

There is never enough time for fun.

~Katherine Hannigan

And all the best words together couldn't hold the happiness.

~Katherine Hannigan

...how do you run and play when you feel like there are bricks of the heaviest sadness weighing down every part of your body? How do you laugh and talk when there are no laughs left inside of you?

~Katherine Hannigan

I know it's hard to not do well at something, and I know it's hard to need help.
