Most people are so busy knocking themselves out trying to do everything they think they should, they never get around to do what they want to do.

~Kathleen Winsor

Charm is the ability to make someone else think that both of you are pretty wonderful.

~Kathleen Winsor

The only genius that's worth anything is the genius for hard work.

~Kathleen Winsor

There's an old press-agents' slogan that's good advice: Don't read your publicity - weigh it.

~Kathleen Winsor

I think Americans love success - but hate the people who have it.

~Kathleen Winsor

the end of anything is a relief. In every relationship, even the most valuable, there are certain unpleasant tensions - and the ending of it snaps those taut inner wires.

~Kathleen Winsor

War makes strangers bedfellows.

~Kathleen Winsor

Half the joys and half the sorrows of this world are discovered in bed.

~Kathleen Winsor

Everything matters, but nothing matters very much.

~Kathleen Winsor

There's one thing I've always known: You can let people suspect anything else about you, but you must never let them suspect you of knowing what you're doing.

~Kathleen Winsor

[Sex] is something big and cosmic. What else do we have? There's only birth and death and the union of two people - and sex is the only one that happens to us more than once.

~Kathleen Winsor

... maybe that's all anyone who writes or paints or sculpts is doing anyway -- excusing themselves for refusing to live like other people or be like them.

~Kathleen Winsor

there are only two ways to make a lot [of money] while you're young: One is to entertain the public; and the other is to cheat it.

~Kathleen Winsor

I guess experience is just learning at first hand the things you knew all along anyway.

~Kathleen Winsor

If you had better sense you'd have learned by now that nothing thrives so well as wickedness

~Kathleen Winsor

Adultery is not a crime, it's an amusement.

~Kathleen Winsor

Success is often harder to take than failure.

~Kathleen Winsor

I've got a penny-ante talent, out of which I try to drum up a living for myself. And what nobody seems to realize is that it's just as difficult to get a bad idea as a good one.

~Kathleen Winsor

Marygreen did not change in sixteen years. It had changed little enough in the past two years.

~Kathleen Winsor

It seemed that up until this moment she had been only half alive.
