The miracle of your mind isn't that you can see the world as it is. It's that you can see the world as it isn't.

~Kathryn Schulz

The point isn't to live without any regrets. The point is to not hate ourselves for having them.

~Kathryn Schulz

If you want to live a life free of regret, there is an option open to you. It's called a lobotomy.

~Kathryn Schulz

We're terrified of not having the answers, and we would sometimes rather assert an incorrect answer than make our peace with the fact that we really don't know.

~Kathryn Schulz

without being sure of something, we can not begin to think about everything elses

~Kathryn Schulz

Our love of being right is best understood as our fear of being wrong

~Kathryn Schulz

Wow. I don't know. Maybe I'm wrong.

~Kathryn Schulz

If it is sweet to be right, then - let's not deny it - it is downright savory to point out that someone else is wrong.

~Kathryn Schulz

Regret doesn't remind us that we did badly, it reminds us that we know that we could do better.

~Kathryn Schulz

Take away the ability of an intelligent, principled, hard-working mind to get it wrong, and you take away the whole thing.

~Kathryn Schulz

both doubt and certainty are as contagious as the common cold

~Kathryn Schulz

Thirty-three percent of all of our regrets pertain to decisions we made about education.

~Kathryn Schulz

The inability to experience regret is one of the diagnostic characteristics of sociopaths.

~Kathryn Schulz

The kinds of things that we can make mistakes about are essentially unlimited in number.

~Kathryn Schulz

I can usually find my own way out of whatever dicey literary or linguistic situations I wander into, but I have to work much harder at the science.

~Kathryn Schulz

Your own regrets may not be as ugly as you think they are.

~Kathryn Schulz

doubt is a skill. credulity ,by contrast, appears to be something very like an instinct

~Kathryn Schulz

If you Google 'regret and tattoo,' you will get 11.5 million hits.
