If you're in the mood for a blushing art house romance, you'll fall for it, too.

~Katrina Onstad

For me, writing started as pleasure that became professionalized, so my relationship to it is a bit sullied. I'm working it out.

Now we have a gig economy where many people are holding down several jobs at once. The whole concept of a 40-hour week makes people under 30 laugh.

~Katrina Onstad

We know that people who work without breaks get tired, introduce errors, get sick and miss out on life. Make no mistake: those staff room hammocks are designed to keep you in them on the weekend.
