I think it's your duty to overcome what you inherit in life.

~Kelsey Grammer

My life is a party thrown for me by my own decisions.

~Kelsey Grammer

Apologizes are pointless, regrets come too late. What matters is you can move, on you can grow.

~Kelsey Grammer

Prayer is when you talk to God. Meditation is when you're listening. Playing the piano allows you to do both at the same time.

~Kelsey Grammer

I got fired when I was a dishwasher at Denny's. That set me back a little bit. You don't realize how important dishwashers are until you do the job.

~Kelsey Grammer

The greatest sin is judgment without knowledge.

~Kelsey Grammer

I was brought up to never lie. Sure, I have. But in the final mix, the lies I've told are far outweighed by the truths I've lived.

~Kelsey Grammer

The mark of a man is one who knows he can't control his circumstances - but he can control his responses.

~Kelsey Grammer

I went and did some things [rehab], and then of course my life didn't change that much [for a while], but I never missed work.

~Kelsey Grammer

I don't know if I'm addicted to fame; fame is more of an unpleasant circumstance of an addiction to creativity.

~Kelsey Grammer

While it is tempting to play it safe, the more we're willing to risk, the more alive we are. In the end, what we regret most are the chances we never took.

~Kelsey Grammer

What I can control is how I react. I can't control anything else.

~Kelsey Grammer

No day-to-day mishaps or indignities can really compromise your sense of self after you've survived a deep tragedy.

~Kelsey Grammer

Life is supposed to get tough.

~Kelsey Grammer

I always thought Cheers ended well. You always anticipate that the characters, though they're leaving television, will somehow go on in another world of the imagination, which I think is good.

~Kelsey Grammer

Alexander Pope once wrote that the theater aspires to wake the soul by gentle strokes of art - to raise the genius and to mend the heart.

~Kelsey Grammer

The first thing I thought [when I read the script] was that Frasier was an intellectual at some points but also an Everyman - flawed and very insecure.

~Kelsey Grammer

Fame obviously has become a premium in everybody's life. Everybody thinks they deserve it, everybody thinks they want it and most people really don't enjoy it once they get it.

~Kelsey Grammer

It takes a very strange person to enjoy fame, with all the by-products that come with it. It's not necessarily a thrill.
