What doesn't kill me can only make me stronger

~Kid Ink

Really ain't one to boast, but I'm doing better than most

~Kid Ink

Don't be distracted by doubters.

~Kid Ink

I'm always thinking of ideas and sounds. I am waiting on something new and dope to inspire me.

~Kid Ink

In my position, I think the best thing I do is just keep girlfriend involved.

~Kid Ink

I think people think that labels can get you features more than you can get your own. I just doesn't work like that.

~Kid Ink

It's natural for me to step into the beat-making side of things next in the future.

~Kid Ink

I love hitting the stage and I don't think I could trade that for sitting in the basement making beats.

~Kid Ink

My agenda will never change from making good music and staying relevant.

~Kid Ink

Either way we'll still be working [me and Sterling Simms] on something new and see where it goes from there.

~Kid Ink

I'm never too nervous about releasing music. I like to see what the people think because it helps me make myself better as an artist for them.

~Kid Ink

To me, Toronto is a good party city, I think Vancouver has the best smoke, you know. And then, Montreal has the best..uh..Chinese food?

~Kid Ink

I feel like when you're an artist and you first come out - people don't want you to be as creative as you could possibly be as a musician. More so they really want you to stick to something.

~Kid Ink

It just inspires me to release an album and know that I can work on a core fanbase. The grind: Just make good music and it translates.

~Kid Ink

I had to figure out what to make for myself as an artist. As a producer you make stuff for all kinds of different people. I was making beats for other artists but not for myself. It was kind of weird.

~Kid Ink

Expect to get more than you expected [from Crash Landing project].
Expect more than a mixtape.

~Kid Ink

I haven't stopped making music since I started at 16 and throughout the years I made a lot of different connections and had a lot of opportunities.

~Kid Ink

I almost feel like I'm still in a molding stage so the feedback and response not only inspires me but guides me in a certain direction as well.

~Kid Ink

It's not like I just take the beat, rap on it and take it for what it is, I always have the producer send it to me, loop the track out, move some stuff around.

~Kid Ink

My personal favorite records might have to be "Keep It Rollin" and "360" featuring Meek Mill...oh and the Intro Is Murder!

~Kid Ink

I wrote and concepted 99% of the ideas for Crash Landing and we reached out to a lot of different popular producers like Jahlil, KE, Kajmir Royale, Hit-Boy etc.
