Quiet people keep thier secrets to themselves. That's what makes them interesting...and usually worth the wait.

~Kirsten Miller

You big crybaby," I whispered into his ear. "Now you know why your mom warned you not to hit girls. Sometimes they hit back.

~Kirsten Miller

You're never ready for the truth. No matter how much you think you know, it always takes you by surprise.

~Kirsten Miller

My faith is big enough to accept all of God's wonders.

~Kirsten Miller

I look for you in every life, but I don't always find you. And sometimes I find you too late.

~Kirsten Miller

What takes more guts? To fight for your own life at any cost or prove that you're willing to lose it?

~Kirsten Miller

I've been called many things. But I suppose 'the devil' is as good a name as any.

~Kirsten Miller

You in the back," said the principal. "Don't think you can hide. Tell me. What would you like to be?" "Dangerous," said the hidden girl, without a second's hesitation.

~Kirsten Miller

I can't run around falling in love with fantasies.

~Kirsten Miller

This is April," he said, holding up the chicken. "She's the only friend I have left. I saved her from an evil chef at Tavern on the Green, and we've pledged eternal friendship.

~Kirsten Miller

Yes, it's funny, isn't it? You try to do what's best for the people you love, and you just end up in trouble for your efforts.

~Kirsten Miller

Aside from the nagging, he's the most entertaining hallucination I've ever had.

~Kirsten Miller

If by now you're a little confused, don't be too hard on yourself. Life is confusing, and anyone who claims that she has all the answers has probably uncovered the wrong ones.

~Kirsten Miller

Beau, will you please watch the entrance for us?" "What should I do if I see anyone suspicious?" "Kick a car," Iain said. "Kick a car?" "To set off the alarm." "Gotcha," Beau said. "Good thinking.

~Kirsten Miller

You know, sometimes when you're too close to someone, it's hard to see who they really are.

~Kirsten Miller

When I grow up, I'd like to be dangerous.

~Kirsten Miller

You see, faith means listening to your heart, not just your heard. It's not about ignoring facts; it's about being willing to see around them sometimes.

~Kirsten Miller

See? You're the crazy one, you redheaded freak. I've been attempting to translate the phrase into Latin. If I ever succeed, I shall make it my personal motto.
