I'm a guy desperately in need of buffers. I have big feelings, big reactions, big emotions. All the things that serve me as an artist, but challenge me as a socially-responsible human being.

~Kurt Sutter

I always have a sense of where I want to end each season, emotionally and relationship wise and with the theme, and I'm always able to hit that.

~Kurt Sutter

The lazy blogosphere has given up on journalism and now trolls Twitter for their on-the-record in-depth articles.

~Kurt Sutter

I love being able to stay real to the world.

~Kurt Sutter

All the people who follow me on Twitter know my sense of humor. I sometimes forget the blogosphere will give it more weight than I intended.

~Kurt Sutter

I can be arrogant, I can be insufferable.

~Kurt Sutter

My production team doesn't like not knowing what anything is going to look like, but creatively, that's fun.

~Kurt Sutter

I think there's a part of me that feels the need to hide a little bit behind a character.

~Kurt Sutter

As an actor, I've been drawn to those characters that are further away from who I may be.

~Kurt Sutter

Unlike fiction, which you create before you go into production, with reality you kind of create it after everything is produced. The drama and the storytelling is really done in post.

~Kurt Sutter

I've learned in most areas of my life, to bounce heated choices off other people. Co-workers, my agent, my wife, a sponsor, etc. A majority of the time, that keeps me on the right side of things.

~Kurt Sutter

My wife, Katey Sagal, has transformed herself from a sitcom cartoon to a dramatic powerhouse.
