I want to be completely honest, I have to say that I love the intimacy of the camera.

~Laura Vandervoort

Hollywood is something imagined ...acting is something crafted.

~Laura Vandervoort

As an actor, throughout three years, I've become more comfortable within my own skin and confident.

~Laura Vandervoort

In terms of acting, we go through phases of being really inspired by film and television and actors and works that we've read.

~Laura Vandervoort

I'm a bit of a feminist and very "female empowerment," and women should be able to do what they please.

~Laura Vandervoort

We goofed around a lot and acted silly. It was great working with Mark Wahlberg too. Some off scenes I had with him I was terrified to do, but he was great.

~Laura Vandervoort

I did it once in high school - I was Sandy in Grease - and I decided then that I would never do it again. I've felt that way for years, and that's no bullshit.

~Laura Vandervoort

Working with them was a great experience. Victor Garber, Stephen McHattie and Ray Liotta - they were all bang-up.

~Laura Vandervoort

I didn't know [director] Aaron Woodley at all, but I knew I wanted to be a part of [The Entitled].

~Laura Vandervoort

I still want to get some empathy from the audience, even though she's pathetic.

~Laura Vandervoort

I never want to play a character that's one-dimensional.

~Laura Vandervoort

I'm always looking to play the part that people don't think of me in.

~Laura Vandervoort

The performances make you want to get back out there and try something new and challenge yourself.

~Laura Vandervoort

As a person, you want to feel like you're giving back. That's something I've always enjoyed doing.

~Laura Vandervoort

The sci-fi fans, in general, do support me, which I love them for. They're great fans.

~Laura Vandervoort

I'm thrilled to be in sci-fi because they write the women very strong, and you don't often get that on television.

~Laura Vandervoort

They say you get nauseous in a green screen room, but I haven't yet. It's a little odd playing pretend with props and monitors that we're supposed to be watching, but I'll get used to it.

~Laura Vandervoort

I do just love the characters in sci-fi, but not necessarily the fact that it's sci-fi.

~Laura Vandervoort

I think reading the novels definitely was a good source for me to study from.
